

NORTHERN METHODISTS

In December 1877, Rev. Harvey Webb, who was the first preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church to preach a sermon in Fort Worth, held services in the old Masonic Hall.

In 1878 a church building was erected at the corner of Ninth and Main streets and a Methodist Episcopal church was organized with seven members. Two of the charter members still live in Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Rouse, much beloved they are by their multitude of friends. The outstanding feature of this church in its beginning was a revival which began on Jan. 1st, 1879, during which one hundred persons were converted. Mr. Geo. E. Nies, who is one of the most successful mission workers in Fort Worth, and Mrs. J. R. Doughty, who still lives here, became members of this church in 1879.

In 1888 this property was sold and Saint Paul's was built.

What was formerly Rosen Heights Mission and then Pearl Avenue church was an offspring of Saint Paul's.

In recent days the membership of Pearl Avenue have united with McKinley Avenue church South and under the pastorate of Rev. E. R. Stanford a practical example that the great Methodisms can become one, is being given.

God speed the day of true unification of world Methodism.
