The Multilingual Experience in Egypt, from the Ptolemies to the Abbasids Arietta Papaconstantinou,2016-12-14

For over a millennium and a half Egypt was home to at least two commonly used languages of communication Although this situation is by no means exceptional in the ancient and medieval worlds the wealth of documentary sources preserved by Egypt's papyri makes the country a privileged observation ground for the study of ancient multilingualism One of the greatest contributions of papyri to this subject is that they capture more linguistic registers than other ancient and medieval sources since they range from very private documents not meant by their author to be read by future generations to official documents produced by the administration which are preserved in their original form This collection of essays aims to make this wealth better known as well as to give a diachronic view of multilingual practices in Egypt from the arrival of the Greeks as a political force in the country with Alexander the Great to the beginnings of Abbasid rule when Greek and slowly also Coptic receded from the documentary record The first section of the book gives an overview of the documentary sources for this subject which for ancient history standards are very rich and as yet under exploited The second part contains several case studies from different periods that deal with language use in contexts of varying breadth and scope from its the ritual use in magic or the liturgy to private letters and state administration

Studies in Greek Lexicography Georgios K. Giannakis,Christoforos Charalambakis,Franco Montanari,Antonios Rengakos,2018-11-19 This volume presents nineteen studies by specialists in the field of Greek lexicography A number of papers deal with historical aspects of Greek lexicography covering all phases of the language i e ancient medieval and modern as well as the interrelations of Greek to neighboring languages In addition other papers address more formal issues such as morphological semantic and syntactic problems that are relevant to the study of Greek lexicography as well as the study of individual words Finally in one study the problem of technical linguistic terminology is addressed along with the methodological epistemological and other issues relating to the particular problem The work is of special interest to scholars on the long standing problems of diachronic semantics historical morphology and word formation and to all those interested in etymology and the study of words of the Greek language

Scripturalizing the Human Vincent L. Wimbush,2015-07-16 Scripturalizing the Human is a transdisciplinary collection of essays that reconceptualizes and models scriptural studies as a critical comparative set of practices with broad ramifications for scholars of religion and biblical studies This critical historical and ethnographic project is focused on scriptures scripturalization scripturalizing as shorthand for the psycho cultural and socio political work we make language do for and to us Each essay focuses on an instance of or situation involving such work engaging with the Bible Book of Mormon Bhagavata Purana and other sacred texts artifacts and practices in order to explore historical and ongoing constructions of the human Contributors use the category of scriptures understood not simply as texts but as freighted shorthand for the dynamics and ultimate politics of language as tools for self illumination and self analysis The significance of the collection lies in the window it opens to the rich and complex view of the highs and lows of human un making as it establishes the connections between a seemingly basic and apolitical religious category and a set of larger social cultural phenomena and dynamics The Encyclopedia Americana, 1927
