The Concept of Race in Natural and Social Science E. Nathaniel Gates, 2014-05-01 Explores the concept of race The term race which originally denoted genealogical or class identity has in the comparatively brief span of 300 years taken on an entirely new meaning In the wake of the Enlightenment it came to be applied to social groups This ideological transformation coupled with a dogmatic insistence that the groups so designated were natural and not socially created gave birth to the modern notion of races as genetically distinct entities The results of this view were the encoding of race and racial hierarchies in law literature and culture How racial categories facilitate social control The articles in the series demonstrate that the classification of humans according to selected physical characteristics was an arbitrary decision that was not based on valid scientific method They also examine the impact of colonialism on the propagation of the concept and note that racial categorization is a powerful social force that is often used to promote the interests of dominant social groups Finally the collection surveys how laws based on race have been enacted around the world to deny power to minority groups A multidisciplinary resource This collection of outstanding articles brings multiple perspectives to bear on race theory and draws on a wider range of periodicals than even the largest library usually holds Even if all the articles were available on campus chances are that a student would have to track them down in several libraries and microfilm collections Providing of course that no journals were reserved for graduate students out for binding or simply missing This convenient set saves students substantial time and effort by making available all the key articles in one reliable source Authoritative commentary The series editor has put together a balanced selection of the most significant works accompanied by expert commentary A general introduction gives important background information and outlines fundamental issues current scholarship and scholarly controversies Introductions to individual volumes put the articles in context and draw attention to germinal ideas and major shifts in the field After reading the material even a beginning student will have an excellent grasp of the basics of the subject

The Four Color Person Kelli M Gary,Max Luscher,1983-09-02 Common Sense vs. the World Ronald J. Plachno,2022-02-06 In this 21st century we are engulfed by tidal waves and tsunamis of information Television Internet Public Speakers and other media can either bring us great knowledge that the world has never seen before this time in history or just give us instead false messages Business commercials want us to buy their products and political commercials want our votes Added to this some of the media may disagree so much as to say opposite seeming things Clearly when some news sources say opposite things logically they all cannot be right In fact it is slightly possible that perhaps none of them are simply correct How to survive in this confusion and still seek wisdom While some people will simply believe what they hear from one source or multiple sources others of us want more And we have something more powerful than the media tidal waves We can choose to be open minded and to think for ourselves Many people seem to doubt the power of the human mind and even their own thinking abilities However I find human thinking power often much greater than many people might imagine There is perhaps more truth more logic power more ethics and morality in our own thinking than is easily available in the media Trust in yourself While there are some logic examples in this book they are not the point You may begin your own thinking or have better inside information and reach a different conclusion and that is more than okay That gives us thinking people something to discuss respectfully The important thing is how we each can Learn how to learn and then perhaps become continuous students for our entire lives and seek wisdom I find that people who achieve being open minded and think are often the brightest the most fun to talk to and also seldom are given to the disrespect and hate so prevalent in today s society And best wishes Ron Plachno The Northwestern Reporter ,1914 Proceedings AIC 2003 Bangkok
