

CHAPTER 4The Simple Ledger*SECTION 4.1 REVIEW QUESTIONS (page 90)

1. An account is a record that documents each change to items in the accounting equation.
2. A ledger is a group or file of accounts.
3. A ledger can be an electronic computer file, loose-leaf pages in a binder, or cards in a tray.
4. The accounting records are often referred to as the books because accounting was done in ledger books until recently. Accounting software frequently identifies ledger accounts with a book symbol.
5. The beginning amounts for a ledger are usually taken from a balance sheet because a balance sheet is prepared at the start of a business to give a balanced record of the company's assets and liabilities.
6. The principle use of T-accounts is to help students understand accounting theory.
7. For any item, the correct side for its beginning value is the side on which the item itself would appear in the accounting equation. The beginning dollar amounts for the assets are placed on the left side of their T-accounts. The beginning dollar amounts for the liabilities and the owner's equity are placed on the right side of their T-accounts.
