Handbook of Data-Based Decision Making in Education Theodore Kowalski,Thomas J. Lasley,2010-04-15 Education has fought long and hard to gain acceptance as a profession and since professionals by definition use data to shape the decisions they make education has little choice but to continue moving in this direction This 3 part handbook represents a major contribution to the literature of education It is a unique compendium of the most original work currently available on how when and why evidence should be used to ground practice It is a comprehensive cross disciplinary research based and practice based resource that all educators can turn to as a guide to data based decision making The Handbook of Data Based Decision Making in Education is a must read for researchers who are just beginning to explore the scientifically based nature of educational practice It is also appropriate for policy makers and practitioners who are confronted with young people who need to be in classrooms where best practices are the norm and not the exception Resources in Education ,2000-04

Information Literacy D. W. Farmer,Terrence Mech,1992 As the quality and quantity of information needed to function in our social institutions increases colleges and universities are being asked to graduate students who are information literate and can operate independently in a rapidly changing complex information rich environment This volume of New Directions for Higher Education explores the concept of information literacy as an essential element in defining an educated person living and working in the Information Age The strategy to achieve this goal centers around resource based learning which requires students to critically analyze and synthesize information from a wide variety of sources available outside of the traditional classroom The goal is to develop students as active learners who can obtain integrate and apply information from diverse sources This is the 78th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Higher Education For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals page Striving for Excellence ,1994 Policies and Practices for Sustainability Transformation in Higher Education Institutions Vasiliki Kioupi,Rosario Michel-Villarreal,Felister Nzuve,Naoya Abe,George Giannopoulos,2025-08-07 Calls for transforming higher education toward sustainability by academics are not new Recently students both current and prospective have actively voiced their demands for this change They seek an education that equips them to navigate the complexities of sustainability and climate change fostering knowledge and skills for action In response higher education institutions HEIs are formulating strategies to align their mission with sustainability goals However the effectiveness of these strategies along with the underlying policies and practices remains insufficiently studied To address this gap it is crucial to convene academics professional staff and students for discussions on necessary cultural shifts a roadmap and ways to monitor and evaluate this change Such dialogues will lead to improved decision making for transformation to achieve sustainability Students will not only learn about sustainability in their courses but also apply them to their lives within and beyond universities that champion holistic sustainability
