Contemporary Photographic Portraiture:

Mit anderen Augen Gabriele, Stephan Berg, 2016-02-25 Portrait dans la photographie contemporaine Peter Weiermair, 1994 Assessing the breadth of present day photo portraiture in over 170 color plates this volume unfolds the relationship between photographer and sitter across the gamut of idioms Tina Barney Clegg Guttmann Anton Corbijn Rineke Dijkstra Bernhard Fuchs Nan Goldin Greg Gorman Peter Hujar Sally Mann Robert Mapplethorpe Hellen von Meene Helmut Newton Thomas Ruff Beat Streuli and Wolfgang Tillmans are among the major contemporary fine art photographers represented here

Contemporary Photography and Theory Sally Miller, 2020-05-26 Contemporary Photography and Theory offers an essential overview of some of the key critical debates in fine art photography today Building on a foundational understanding of photography it offers an in depth discussion of five topic areas identity landscape and place the politics of representation psychoanalysis and the event Written in an accessible style it introduces the critical literature relevant to photography that has emerged over recent decades Moving beyond seminal works by writers such as Walter Benjamin Roland Barthes and Susan Sontag it enables readers to explore an extended canon of theorists including Jacques Lacan Judith Butler and Giorgio Agamben The book is illustrated throughout and analyses a range of works by established and emergent artists in order to show how these theoretical concepts are central to understanding contemporary photography These 15 short essays encourage readers to apply critical thinking to both their own work and that of others They are the perfect starting point for essays as well being of suitable length for assigned readings making this the ideal resource for learning about contemporary photography and theory

The Expanded Subject Joshua I. Cohen, Sandrine Colard, Giulia Paoletti, 2016 From 19th century studio practice through the independence era African photography has best been known for modes of portraiture that crystallize the sitter's identity and social milieu Even portraits by contemporary artists are often interpreted as windows into African realities This exhibition reconsiders African contemporary photographic portraiture by presenting four practitioners whose concerns range well beyond questions of social identity Sammy Baloji Mohamed Camara Sa dou Dicko and George Osodi expand their subjects interpretive possibilities exemplifying a new creativity and versatility in portrait making While each artist employs different strategies they all challenge the assumption that photographic portraits serve as mirrors of the self Baloji's montages dislocate the subject historically Camara probes the boundaries of the portrait genre Dicko expresses uncertainty at the possibility of representation and Osodi engages his subjects as platforms for political commentary The four artists enlist portraiture as a point of departure for exploring subjectivity history and photographic form The Expanded Subject offers new insights into the expressive and conceptual range of African photo portraiture today

Auto Focus Susan Bright, 2010-10-05 Auto Focus features a dazzling array of self portraits by seventy five of the world's foremost contemporary photographers Photography writer and curator Susan Bright provides a clear guide through this significant and dynamic genre showing how issues of identity whether national sexual racial personal or artistic are key to understanding the work of many of today's leading photographers. This lavishly illustrated accessible survey is organized into five thematic chapters: diaristic and autobiographical images; pictures of the body; the use of masks and masquerade; the return to studio portraiture; and the photographic album and performance, both public and private. An informative illustrated introduction explains the history of the photographic self-portrait from the 1840s to the late twentieth century, providing an invaluable context for the recent surge in artists' images of themselves. From intimate images of introspection and those that consciously challenge notions of ethnicity and sexuality to dramatic stylized photographs of dreamlike scenarios, Auto Focus shows how one of the longest established artistic genres continues to fascinate artists today. Masquerade Kate Newton, Christine Rolph, 2003

The Artist Portrait Series, 2001 Fern Logan's collection of photographic portraits documents the emergence of the African American artist into mainstream American art. The Artist Portrait Series captures sixty significant artists from the late twentieth century. Each rich duotone portrait is accompanied by Logan's commentary on the artist. Logan began her career as a nature landscape and architectural photographer but in 1983, resolving to put the human figure into her repertoire, she created the photodocumentary Artist Portrait Series. Her philosophy of art as an educational tool prompted her to document the accomplishments of such highly skilled visual artists as Gordon Parks, Elizabeth Catlett, Jacob Lawrence, Roy DeCarava, and Romare Bearden. Logan expanded the project to promote recognition for prominent black artists in theater, television, film, music, dance, and literature, including Alvin Ailey, Maya Angelou, and Adolph Caesar. Her subjects include well known artists as well as those who were emerging at the time they were photographed For Logan the artistic process is as important as the final image Her portraits not only capture the personality of the sitter but also convey the dialogue and rapport between photographer and subject Logan s interest in the tonal range of the black and white photograph and its contribution to the rich drama between light and dark informs her photographs in a formal manner By allowing the artist sitter to construct the photographic moment Logan creates visually dynamic and psychologically probing images that are reinforced by the immediate studio or living environment This elegant book documents nearly two decades of her finest portraits

Anti-Portraits: Poetics of the Face in Modern English, Polish and Russian Literature (1835-1965) Kamila Pawlikowska,2015-10-05 Anti Portraits Poetics of the Face in Modern English Polish and Russian Literature 1835 1965 is a study of a physiognomic descriptions of the face It demonstrates that writers such as George Eliot Leo Tolstoy Edgar Allan Poe Nicolay Gogol Virginia Woolf and Witold Gombrowicz vigorously resisted the belief that facial features reflect character While other studies tend to focus on descriptions which affirm physiognomy this book examines portraits which question popular face reading systems and contravene their common premise the surface depth principle Such portraits reveal that physiognomic formula is a cultural construct invented to abridge organise and regulate legibility of the human face Most importantly strange and unreadable fictional faces frequently expose the connection between physiognomic judgement and stereotyping prejudice and racism
