Archaeology: Making, Understanding, Story-telling Christina Souyoudzoglou-Haywood, Aidan O'Sullivan, 2019-09-30 In this book based on the proceedings of a two day workshop on experimental archaeology at the Irish Institute of Hellenic Studies at Athens in 2017 scholars artists and craftspeople explore how people in the past made things used and discarded them from prehistory to the Middle Ages Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Agata Ulanowska, Karina Grömer, Ina Vanden Berghe, Magdalena Öhrman, 2022-04-29 The diverse developments in textile research of the last decade along with the increased recognition of the importance of textile studies in adjacent fields now merit a dedicated full length publication entitled Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Humanities and Natural Sciences Interwoven for our Understanding of Textiles With this volume the authors and the editors wish to illustrate to the current impact of textile archaeology on the scholarly perception of the past not limited to archaeology alone The volume presents new insights into the consumption meaning use and re use of textiles and dyes all of which are topics of growing importance in textile research As indicated by the title we demonstrate the continued importance of interdisciplinarity by showcasing several interwoven approaches to environmental and archaeological remains textual and iconographic sources archaeological experiments and ethnographic data from a large area covering Europe and the Mediterranean Near East Africa and Asia The chronological span is deliberately wide including materials dating from c 6th millennium BCE to c mid 14th century CE The volume is organised in four parts that aim to reflect the main areas of the textile research in 2020 After the two introductory chapters Part I About this Volume and Textile Research in 2020 follow two chapters referring to dyes and dyeing technology in which analytical and material based studies are linked to contextual sources Part II Interdisciplinarity of Colour Dye Analyses and Dyeing Technologies The six chapters of Part III

Critical Archaeology in the Digital Age Kevin Garstki,2022-02-01 Every part of archaeological practice is intimately tied to digital technologies but how deeply do we really understand the ways these technologies impact the theoretical trends in archaeology how these trends affect the adoption of these technologies or how the use of technology alters our interactions with the human past This volume suggests a critical approach to archaeology in a digital world a purposeful and systematic application of digital tools in archaeology This is a call to pay attention to your digital tools to be explicit about how you are using them and to understand how they work and impact your own practice The chapters in this volume demonstrate how this critical reflexive approach to archaeology in the digital age can be accomplished touching on topics that include 3D data predictive and procedural modelling digital publishing digital archiving public and community engagement ethics and global sustainability The scale and scope of this research demonstrates how necessary it is for all archaeological practitioners to approach this digital age with a critical perspective and to be purposeful in our use of digital technologies

Making Tim Ingold,2013-04-12 Making creates knowledge builds environments and transforms lives Anthropology archaeology art and architecture are all ways of making and all are dedicated to exploring the conditions and potentials of human life In this exciting book Tim Ingold ties the four disciplines together in a way that has never been attempted before In a radical departure from conventional studies that treat art and architecture as compendia of objects for analysis Ingold proposes an anthropology and archaeology not of but with art and architecture He advocates a way of thinking through making in which sentient practitioners and active materials continually answer to or correspond with one another in the generation of form Making offers a series of profound reflections on what it means to create things on materials and form the meaning of design landscape perception animate life personal knowledge and the work of the hand It draws on examples and experiments ranging from prehistoric stone tool making to the building of medieval cathedrals from round mounds to monuments from flying kites to winding string from drawing to writing The book will appeal to students and practitioners alike with interests in social and cultural anthropology archaeology architecture art and design visual studies and material culture

Making Senses of the Past Jo Day,2013-03-19 Since the nineteenth century museums have kept their artifacts in glass cases to better preserve them and drawings and photographs have become standard ways of presenting the past These practices have led to an archaeology dominated by visual description even though human interaction with the surrounding world involves the whole body and all of its senses In the past few years sensory archaeology has become more prominent and Making Senses of the Past is one of the first collected volumes on this subject This book presents cutting edge research on new theoretical issues The essays presented here take readers on a multisensory journey around the world and across time In ancient Peru a site provides sensory surprises as voices resound beneath the ground and hidden carvings slowly reveal their secrets In Canada and New Zealand the flicker of reflected light from a lake dances on the faces of painted rocks and may have influenced when and why the pigment was applied In Mesopotamia vessels for foodstuffs build a picture of a past cuisine that encompasses taste and social activity in the building of communities While perfume and flowers are examined in various cultures in the chamber tombs of ancient Roman Palestine we are reminded that not all smells are pleasant Making Senses of the Past explores alternative ways to perceive past societies and offers a new way of wiring archaeology that incorporates the senses

Making Time Gavin Lucas, 2021-04-25 Making Time grapples with a range of issues that have crystallized in the wake of 15 years of discussion on time in archaeology since the author's seminal volume The Archaeology of Time synthesizing them for a new generation of scholars The general understanding of time held by both archaeologists and non archaeologists is often very simple a linear notion where time flows along a single path from the past into the future This book sets out to complicate this image to draw out the key problems and issues with time that impact archaeological interpretation Using concrete examples drawn from different periods and places the book challenges the reader to think again Ultimately the book will suggest that if we want to understand what archaeological time is then we need to accept that things do not exist in time they make time The crucial question then becomes what kinds of time do archaeological materialities produce Written for upper level undergraduates and researchers in archaeology the book is also accessible to non academics with an interest in the topic The book is relevant for cognate disciplines especially history heritage studies and philosophy

Archaeology in Society Marcy Rockman, Joe Flatman, 2011-11-17 The practice of archaeology has many different facets from academia to government to cultural resource management to public media Considering the place of archaeology in society means understanding the role that archaeology has in the present day and a sense of the contributions that it can make in each of these areas both now and in the future Archaeologists come to the field to pursue a variety of interests teaching examining history preserving the environment or studying a specialized time period or interest The outside world has a number of other expectations of archaeology preservation tourism and education to name a few From a broad and varied background the editors have compiled a rare group of contributors uniquely qualified to address questions about the current state of archaeology and its relevance in society There is no single answer to the question of how the field of archaeology should develop and what it can do for society Instead the authors in this volume lay out the many ways in which archaeology is relevant to the present day considering for example climate change energy exploration warfare national identity the importance of stories and how they are told and how and why opportunities to engage with the past through museums digs television classes and the print media have the form they currently do creating a state of the art tool for archaeologists policymakers and the public alike to understand the work of many in the field and address the challenges we all face
