The Architect's Suicide R M Beckley,2014-05 The Architect s Suicide thoughtfully combines fiction with fact in this sometimes hallucinatory account It brings readers deep inside the convoluted life and mysterious disappearance of an American architect seeking fame and recognition during an era when heroism appears to have died An architectural critic endeavors to understand the disappearance of Robert A Michael architect and his presumed suicide In his quest recorded here the critic sheds light on the world of architectural practice that so disappointed this architect As part of his research the critic interviews members of Robert s family business associates clients and colleagues the narratives the critic assembles reveal the personal and professional ambitions and despair that may have contributed to the architect s fate Robert A Michael in his youth read Ayn Rand s influential book the Fountainhead Like other young men he was inspired by Rand to pursue a career in architecture choosing architecture over art as his career goal He believed in Rand s modernist idea of the autonomous man of independent mindedness and integrity Robert however was continually disappointed as he found the heroic role of the architect promoted by Rand to be elusive Conflicts arose between his aesthetic ideals and the realities of architectural practice the critic speculates that Robert s sobering disappearance signifies the end of the modern era for architects and their profession as promoted by Rand and the heroes of architecture s modern movement Architect ,1872

Sustainable Architecture: William Van Zyl,2018 Current Research on Sleep and Dreams United States. Public Health Service,Gay Gaer Luce,1966 This monograph was stimulated by the extraordinary growth now apparent in an area generally identified as sleep and dream research for this recent concentration of scientific effort offers a singular example of the power that basic research can exert in penetrating the problems of mental health and illness In the past year alone the National Institute of Mental Health supported over 60 projects related in whole or in part to studies of sleep and dreams with awards totaling over 2 million The work of many of these NIMH investigators is included in this summary which extends beyond the Institute s program insofar as necessary to indicate the major trends of work in the area The report cannot of course encompass the classical studies already summarized in published literature nor even provide comprehensive survey of present day sleep research for although much of the scientific data on sleep have been generated during the last dozen years significant references in this field now number in the many thousands The mosaic of disciplines contributing to the study of sleep contains such diverse fields as psychiatry and mathematics psychology and biochemistry physiology and anthropology Nevertheless ferment about the subject matter and a spirit of cooperation across traditional disciplinary lines have made it possible to knit together data that might otherwise have lain unrelated in a variety of laboratories During the past year individual summaries of many of the projects cited here were distributed to scientists working in the field of sleep and dreams Many of the recipients felt that up to date reports especially in a field of such dynamic activity represented a unique solution to the problem of scientific information exchange Such communication it was felt provided a quick look at work in progress that might prevent duplication of effort and stimulate pertinent contacts among scientists thus aiding them in their work It is hoped that this monograph will be a further part of that process Foreword
