Uncertainty in Pharmacology Adam LaCaze,Barbara Osimani,2020-02-20 This volume covers a wide range of topics concerning methodological epistemological and regulatory ethical issues around pharmacology The book focuses in particular on the diverse sources of uncertainty the different kinds of uncertainty that there are and the diverse ways in which these uncertainties are or could be addressed Compared with the more basic sciences such as chemistry or biology pharmacology works across diverse observable levels of reality although the first step in the causal chain leading to the therapeutic outcome takes place at the biochemical level the end effect is a clinically observable result which is influenced not only by biological actions but also psychological and social phenomena Issues of causality and evidence must be treated with these specific aspects in mind In covering these issues the book opens up a common domain of investigation which intersects the deeply intertwined dimensions of pharmacological research pharmaceutical regulation and the related economic environment The book is a collective endeavour with in depth contributions from experts in pharmacology philosophy of medicine statistics scientific methodology formal and social epistemology working in constant dialogue across disciplinary boundaries

Costs and productivity in patient-centered medical homes Jerry Cromwell,Leslie Greenwald,2016-07-28 To address the fragmentation and discontinuities in health care patient centered medical homes PCMHs provide additional care coordination services for an extra management fee with the goal of saving private and public insurers money while improving the quality of care Because empirical evidence showing PCMH financial success is unavailable we use claims data from 312 PCMHs and a matched set of comparison practices to simulate the required reductions in hospital admissions readmissions and other services necessary to achieve statistically detectable savings thresholds We also determine staff coordination time and productivity levels necessary to result in detectable savings Our results indicate that PCMHs will have to generate annual savings between 3 percent and 30 percent depending upon the underlying cost variation per beneficiary number of demonstration practices and the extent of beneficiary clustering within practices Eliminating all readmissions or most non hospital services alone will not achieve required savings even in larger initiatives In order to be cost effective additional physician and nurse time coordinating care will have to be quite productive in reducing costly health services If so this likely will result in substantial profits for highly productive PCMHs

Construction Matters Stefan Holzer, Silke Langenberg, Clemens Knobling, Orkun Kasap, 2025-03-04 Construction History Construction Heritage Recent Construction Historiography Industrialization Engineering Sciences Building Materials Building Actors Construction History is still a fairly new and small but quickly evolving field The current trends in Construction History are well reflected in the papers of the present conference Construction History has strong roots in the historiography of the 19th century and the evolution of industrialization but the focus of our research field has meanwhile shifted notably to include more recent and also more distant histories as well This is reflected in these conference proceedings where 65 out of 148 contributed papers deal with the built heritage or building actors of the 20th or 21st century The conference also mirrors the wide spectrum of documentary and analytical approaches comprised within the discipline of Construction History Papers dealing with the technical and functional analysis of specific buildings or building types are complemented by other studies focusing on the lives and formation of building actors from laborers to architects and engineers from economical aspects to social and political implications on legal aspects and the strong ties between the history of construction and the history of engineering sciences The conference integrates perfectly into the daily work at the Institute for Preservation and Construction History at ETH Zurich Its two chairs the Chair for Building Archaeology and Construction History and the Chair for Construction Heritage and Preservation endeavor to cover the entire field and to bridge the gaps between the different approaches methodologies and disciplines between various centuries as well as technologies learning together and from each other The proceedings of 8ICCH give a representative picture of the state of the art in the field and will serve as a reference point for future studies
