Psychological perspectives on expertise Guillermo Campitelli, Michael H Connors, Merim Bilalić, David Zachary Hambrick, 2015-05-19 Experts are persons who are very knowledgeable about or skillful in a particular area The aim of this Research Topic is to advance knowledge in the understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music medical diagnosis sports arts and sciences In the field of judgment and decision making researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions e.g. clinical psychologists, medical practitioners, judges, meteorologists, stock brokers. Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise. Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception for example investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert. Furthermore, skill acquisition research informs in detail about short-term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops. We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision-making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports, intellectual games, arts, scientific disciplines and professions as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception, memory, attention, language and imagery. We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas, articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research. Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged. The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience.

Subjective Meaning and Culture

Lorand B. Szalay, James Deese, 2024-05-01. Originally published in 1978. Subjective Meaning and Culture presents a framework and a method for the comparative study of the perceptions, attitudes and cultural frames of reference shared by groups of people. The framework is the notion of subjective meaning and the method is that of word associations. The authors present a detailed account of some particular cross-cultural and intergroup comparisons using the word association technique described in this volume. However, rather than emphasize comparisons, they focus on the technique itself as a method in the investigation of subjective meaning and with it, subjective culture. Their purpose was to introduce a research capability which offered new kinds of information and made critical aspects of subjective meaning accessible to empirical investigation. Today it can be read and enjoyed in its historical context.

Advances in Safety Management and Human Performance

Pedro M. Arezes, Ronald L. Boring, 2021-07-03. This book provides readers with a timely snapshot of research and developments relating to human reliability, performance and safety analysis and human error risk and safety management in various industrial contexts such as manufacturing, transportation and health. It combines a diverse range of disciplines including work physiology, health informatics, safety engineering, workplace design, injury prevention and occupational psychology and presents new strategies for safety management, accident prevention at the workplace, performance testing and participatory ergonomics. It discusses issues related to automation and strategies for a safer Human-Automation Interaction. Based on the proceedings of the AHFE 2021 International Conferences on Safety Management and Human Factors and Human Error Reliability, Resilience and Performance which were held virtually on July 25-29, 2021 from USA, the book offers an extensive and inspiring guide for both researchers and practitioners dealing with the topics of safety management human error prevention and integration of automation in the workplace

The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Linguistics Jeffrey Lidz, William Snyder, Joe Pater, 2016-06-30 In this handbook renowned scholars from a range of backgrounds provide a state of the art review of key developmental findings in language acquisition The book places language acquisition phenomena in a richly linguistic and comparative context highlighting the link between linguistic theory language development and theories of learning The book is divided into six parts Parts I and II examine the acquisition of phonology and morphology respectively with chapters covering topics such as phonotactics and syllable structure prosodic phenomena compound word formation and processing continuous speech Part III moves on to the acquisition of syntax including argument structure questions mood alternations and possessives In Part IV chapters consider semantic aspects of language acquisition including the expression of genericity quantification and scalar implicature Finally Parts V and VI look at theories of learning and aspects of atypical language development respectively
