Notable Speeches in Contemporary Presidential Campaigns Robert V. Friedenberg, 2002-03-30 Though many studies of contemporary campaigns focus on brief political advertisements and the growing impact of technology on contemporary campaigns the definitive statements of most candidates are still made in public addresses Friedenberg examines the first public address made by an American presidential candidate on his own behalf The circumstances giving rise to William Henry Harrison s 1840 address and the themes that he developed in that address are strikingly contemporary serving as an appropriate prelude to the examinations of contemporary political speaking that follow Those examinations focus on notable campaign speeches by John F Kennedy Barry Goldwater Richard Nixon Ronald Reagan Bill and Hillary Clinton and George W Bush Each study examines a key event that foreshadowed the speech studied Each study presents a rhetorical biography of the speaker including a discussion of the speechwriting team and preparation techniques utilized by the speaker Each study presents a thorough study of the campaign context in which the speeches were presented Each also presents a close reading and rhetorical analysis of the speech itself and observations on the impact of the speech Cumulatively Friedenberg s studies help to illustrate how even in today s high tech political environment of 30 second ads and candidate Web sites public speeches continue to play a crucial role in political campaigning Of particular interest to scholars and students involved with political communication and political American campaigning

England's Israel and the Foundations of Modern Political Thought Meirav Jones,2025-07-08 The foundations of modern political thought presumed secular were laid in conversation with theologically motivated politics and in negotiation with Jewish ideas Mid seventeenth century England was a hotbed in which crucial ideas of modern politics were conceived Thomas Hobbes presented his social contract John Selden wrote major treatises which were foundational for modern natural and international law and England participated in the wave of republicanism that swept over Europe This was also the period of the English Civil War which has been portrayed as a war of religion and a revolution of saints and was characterized by religious ends and motivations guiding politics and politicians In England s Israel and the Foundations of Modern Political Thought Meirav Jones proposes that the foundational political theory conceived in this period was significantly related to the theological politics of the time Through an examination of the language and imagery shared by theorists and saints Jones finds that in the twenty year period between 1640 and1660 when Hobbes Selden and their contemporaries published over 40 percent of all texts published in England contained one or more of the terms Hebrew Israel Jerusalem Zion or Jew Further all known works of political theory from the period employed these terms While preachers in English parliament addressed and understood England as Israel foundational theorists of the modern state employed ancient Israel as a political model and explicitly preferred Hebrew over Greek wisdom Modern politics did not develop solely from within a conversation among elites neither was it conceived as a Godless enterprise even by its most renowned secular architects Instead as the book demonstrates it spoke the language of religiously motivated politics and was conceived in its terms Ultimately Jones argues that it was through a sweeping revival of Hebrew in early modern Europe that the foundations of modern politics were laid in conversation with theological politics and in negotiation with Jewish ideas and ideas of the Jews
