Borderscapes: Imaginations and Practices of Border Making Dr Chiara Brambilla, Dr Jussi Laine, Professor Gianluca Bocchi, Professor James W. Scott, 2015-12-28 Using the borderscapes concept this book offers an approach to border studies that expresses the multilevel complexity of borders from the geopolitical to social practice and cultural production at and across the border Accordingly it encourages a productive understanding of the processual de territorialized and dispersed nature of borders and their ensuring regimes in the era of globalization and transnational flows as well as showcasing border research as an interdisciplinary field with its own academic standing Contemporary bordering processes and practices are examined through the borderscapes lens to uncover important connections between borders as a challenge to national and EU policies and borders as potential elements of political innovation through conceptual re framings of social political economic and cultural spaces The authors offer a nuanced and critical re reading and understanding of the border not as an entity to be taken for granted but as a place of investigation and as a resource in terms of the construction of novel geo political imaginations social and spatial imaginaries and cultural images In so doing they suggest that rethinking borders means deconstructing the interweaving between political practices of inclusion exclusion and the images created to support and communicate them on the cultural level by Western territorialist modernity The result is a book that proposes a wandering through a constellation of bordering policies discourses practices and images to open new possibilities for thinking mapping acting and living borders under contemporary globalization

International Law and Boundary Disputes in Africa Gbenga Oduntan, 2015-06-26 Africa has experienced a number of territorial disputes over land and maritime boundaries due in part to its colonial and post colonial history This book explores the legal political and historical nature of disputes over territory in the African continent and critiques the content and application of contemporary International law to the resolution of African territorial and border disputes Drawing on central concepts of public international law such as sovereignty and jurisdiction and socio political concepts such as colonialism ethnicity nationality and self determination this book interrogates the intimate connection that peoples and nations have to territory and the severe disputes these may lead to Gbenga Oduntan identifies the major principles of law at play in relation to territorial and boundary disputes and argues that the predominant use of foreign based adjudicatory mechanisms in attempting to deal with African boundary disputes alienates those institutions and mechanisms from African people and can contribute to the recurrence of conflicts and disputes in and among African territories He suggests that the understanding and application of multidisciplinary dispute resolution mechanisms and strategies can allow for a more holistic and effective treatment of boundary disputes As an in depth study into the legal socio political and anthropological mechanisms involved in the understanding of territorial boundaries and a unique synthesis of an African jurisprudence of international boundaries law this book will be of great use and interest to students researchers and practitioners in African and Public International Law International Relations and decision makers in need of better understanding the settlement of disputes over territorial boundaries in both Africa and the wider world

Understanding Cultural Traits Fabrizio Panebianco, Emanuele Serrelli, 2016-02-26 This volume constitutes a first step towards an ever deferred interdisciplinary dialogue on cultural traits It offers a way to enter a representative sample of the intellectual diversity that surrounds this topic and a means to stimulate innovative avenues of research It stimulates critical thinking and awareness in the disciplines that need to conceptualize and study culture cultural traits and cultural diversity Culture is often defined and studied with an emphasis on cultural features For UNESCO culture should be regarded as the set of distinctive spiritual material intellectual and emotional features of society or a social group But the very possibility of assuming the existence of cultural traits is not granted and any serious evaluation of the notion of cultural trait requires the interrogation of several disciplines from cultural anthropology to linguistics from psychology to sociology to musicology and all areas of knowledge on culture This book presents a strong multidisciplinary perspective that can help clarify the problems about cultural traits Border Politics Nick Vaughan-Williams, 2009-05-12 Winner of the Gold Award 2011 Past Presidents Book Competition Association of Borderlands Studies This book newly available in paperback presents a distinctive theoretical approach to the problem of borders in the study of global politics It turns from current debates about the presence or absence of borders between states to consider the possibility that the concept of the border of the state is being reconfigured in contemporary political life The author uses critical resources found in poststructuralist thought to think in new ways about the relationship between borders security and sovereign power drawing on a range of thinkers including Agamben Derrida and Foucault He highlights the necessity of a more pluralized and radicalised view of what borders are and where they might be found and uses the problem of borders to critically explore the innovations and limits of poststructuralist scholarship

Crusader Castles and Modern Histories Ronnie Ellenblum, 2007-01-04 For the last 150 years the historiography of the Crusades has been dominated by nationalist and colonialist discourses in Europe and the Levant These modern histories have interpreted the Crusades in terms of dichotomous camps Frankish and Muslim In this revisionist study Ronnie Ellenblum presents an interpretation of Crusader historiography that instead defines military and architectural relations between the Franks local Christians Muslims and Turks in terms of continuous dialogue and mutual influence Through close analysis of siege tactics defensive strategies and the structure and distribution of Crusader castles Ellenblum relates patterns of crusader settlement to their environment and demonstrates the influence of opposing cultures on tactics and fortifications He argues that fortifications were often built according to economic and geographic considerations rather than for strategic reasons or to protect illusory frontiers and that Crusader castles are the most evident expression of a cultural dialogue between east and west
