Rangelands of the Arid and Semi-arid Zones in Uzbekistan Gustave Gintzburger,2003 This abundantly illustrated book presents a panorama of the biodiversity climatology and flora of the arid zones of Uzbekistan and describes around 150 dominant range species with their ecology utilization and range rehabilitation techniques It should contribute to a better understanding of these little known arid zones of Central Asia and to the conservation and rational use of their fragile natural resources

Sustainable Land Management in Greater Central Asia Victor Squires,Lu Qi,2017-09-22 Greater Central Asia encompasses a vast area that includes deserts natural grasslands steppes shrublands and alpine regions Many of these land types are degraded and productivity is falling at a time when human populations and livestock inventories are on the rise Ecosystem stability and biodiversity are under threat and there is an urgent need to develop more sustainable land management regimes This book uses an integrated regional approach to provide a comprehensive exploration of sustainable land development in Central Asia An interdisciplinary team of experts analyses the economic ecological sociological technological and political factors surrounding sustainable land and water management in the region sharing potential problems and solutions As international concern about desertification grows the book concludes by asking how the region is likely to develop in the future This book will be of value to scholars students policy makers and NGOs with an interest in sustainable development in Central Asia

Thoughtscapes to Landscapes, Creating Health from the Ground Up Pablo Gregorini,Iain James Gordon,Carol Kerven,Fred Provenza,2022-09-27 This Research Topic is hosted in partnership with the Grazing in Future Multi Scapes international workshop The workshop will be held online 30th May 5th June 2021 Throughout different landscapes of the world grazing herbivores fulfill essential roles in ecology agriculture economies and cultures including families farms and communities Not only do livestock provide food and wealth they also deliver ecosystem services through the roles they play in environmental composition structure and dynamics Grazing as a descriptive adjective locates herbivores within a spatial and temporal pastoral context where they naturally graze or are grazed by farmers ranchers shepherds etc In many cases however pastoralism with the single objective of maximizing animal production and or profit has transformed landscapes diminishing biodiversity reducing water and air quality accelerating loss of soil and plant biomass and displacing indigenous animals and people These degenerative landscape transformations have jeopardized present and future ecosystem and societal services breaking the natural integration of land water air health society and culture Land users policy makers and societies are calling for alternative approaches to pastoral systems a call for diversified adaptive and integrative agro ecological and food pastoral systems designs that operate across multiple scales and scapes e g thought social land food health wild scapes simultaneously There needs to be a paradigm shift in pastoral production systems and how grazing herbivores are managed grazed within them derived initially from a change in perception of how they provide wealth The thoughtsapes will include paradigm shifts where grazers move away from the actual archetype of pastoralism future landscapes are re imagined and regenerative and sustainable management paradigms are put in place to achieve these visions From this will come a change in collective thinking of how communities and cultures socialscapes perceive their relationships with pastoral lands The landscapes are the biotic and abiotic four dimensional domains or environments in need of nurture Landscapes are the tables where humans and herbivores gain their nourishment i e foodscapes Foodscapes and dietary perceptions dictate actions and reactions that are changing as developed countries grapple with diseases related to obesity and people starve in developing countries Societies are demanding healthscapes and nutraceutical foodscapes and paradoxically some are moving away from animal products While indigenous species of animals including humans wildscapes have been displaced from many of their lands by monotonic pastoralism multifunctional pastoral systems can be designed in view of dynamic multi scapes of the future The purpose of this Research Topic is to influence future mental and practical models of pastoralism in continually evolving multi scapes We seek a collection of papers that will cultivate such a shift in thinking towards future models of sustainable multipurpose pastoralism The contributions will be synthesized to establish how multifunctional pastoral systems can be re imagined and then designed in view of the integrative dynamics of sustainable future multi scapes

Prospects for Pastoralism in Kazakstan and Turkmenistan Dr Carol

Kerven,2005-08-18 This collection traces how pastoralists have coped with the challenges of change in their precarious position in a part of the world with a long tradition of livestock keeping Vegetation science applications for rangeland analysis and management P.T. Tueller,2012-12-06 Natural grasslands pastures and meadows are among the vegetation types most frequently investigated with phytosociological methods This was one of the reasons why volume 13 Application of vegetation science to grassland husbandry and agriculture edited by W Krause appeared as one of the first volumes of this handbook It appeared under the chief editorship of Prof R Tiixen and in his time main emphasis of the handbook was placed on Zurich Montpellier methods and the European vegetation. When we redesigned the handbook we felt the need to include other methods and aims of grassland analyses as well as a more global coverage of grasslands. Especially the natural dry and semidry areas of the world needed to be covered was very fortunate in getting Prof Tueller of the University of Reno I Nevada as an editor for this volume. He and the colleagues he motivated to compile volume 14 on Application of vegetation science to rangeland analysis and management have created a truly global coverage of the topics interesting for vegetation analyses in natural grasslands. Since volume 13 covered the problems of anthropogenically created grasslands this topic was not expressly treated in order to avoid duplication. For the same reason no specific attempt was made to get more papers from Europe and the temperate forest region in general. The cooperation with Dr Tueller has been very rewarding for me.

Vegetation Dynamics of Mongolia P.D. Gunin, Elizabeth A. Vostokova, Nadezhda I.

Dorofeyuk, Pavel E. Tarasov, Clanton C. Black, 2013-03-09 Mongolia is an expansive land locked country tilted by tectonic forces to the North that experiences extremes of continental climate. Moisture carrying wind currents are scarce so that the land has extended highs and lows in its environment. Culturally the people are mostly nomadic having been sustained for centuries by an economy based on domestic livestock grazing. There is a saying that As the noses go so goes Mongolia referring to the domesticated grazing noses of sheep goats camels yaks or horses and wild ungulates such as gazelles. The vast fenceless steppes of Mongolia furnish the vegetation for grazing. With such extremes in climate it is clear that the vegetation must be resilient and dynamic to cope with the dictates of its extremely harsh environments. Pollen profiles from lakes plant macrofossils and other data over the last 15 000 years show the dynamic nature of Mongolian vegetation. Currently Mongolian society is experiencing much human driven economic development which increases pressure on its vegetation. The Great Khural Laws of 1995 forcefully addressed such environmental concerns with the expanded establishment of National Reserves and Parks. But continued effort and vigilance must be expended to insure that Mongolian society will continue to be sustained by its vegetation. This book highlights work such as conserving and restoring plant diversity in various ecosystems and makes recommendations for sustaining the vegetation basis of the nomadic Mongolian society.

Range and Animal Sciences and Resources Management - Volume II Victor R. Squires, 2010-07-07 Range and Animal Sciences and Resources Management is a component of Encyclopedia of Food and Agricultural Sciences Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias. Rangelands comprise over forty percent of the earth's land surface and as one of the most prevalent land systems on the planet rangelands are critical habitats for myriad plant and animal species and form many of the world's major watersheds. Rangelands are categorized in two distinct ways a) as a type of land or b) a type of land use. This theme with contributions from distinguished experts in the field discusses about Range and Animal Sciences and Resources Management in several related topics. These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences: University and College students Educators Professional practitioners Research personnel and Policy analysts managers and decision makers and NGOs Desertification of Arid Lands Harold E.
