Addressing The Underlying Causes Of Deforestation And Forest Degradation:

Addressing the Underlying Causes of Deforestation and Forest Degradation, 1999 Routledge Handbook of Forest Ecology Kelvin S.-H. Peh, Richard T. Corlett, Yves Bergeron, 2024-10-07 The Routledge Handbook of Forest Ecology is an essential resource covering all aspects of forest ecology from a global perspective This new edition has been fully revised and updated throughout to reflect the profound and unprecedented changes in both forests and climates since the publication of the first edition in 2015 The handbook reflects key developments in the field of forest dynamics and large scale processes as well as the changes that are now manifesting in different types of forests across the globe as a result of climate change It covers both natural and managed forests from boreal temperate sub tropical and tropical regions of the world In this second edition the breadth of the handbook has been expanded with new chapters on mountain forests monodominance pathogens and invertebrate pests and amphibians and reptiles in forest ecosystems Original author teams are complemented by the addition of new authors to offer fresh perspectives and the second edition places greater emphasis on the applicability of each topic at a global level The handbook is divided into seven parts Part I The forest Part II Forest dynamics Part III Forest flora and fauna Part IV Energy and nutrients Part V Forest conservation and management Part VI Forest and climate change Part VII Human ecology The Routledge Handbook of Forest Ecology is an essential reference text for a wide range of students and scholars of ecology environmental science forestry geography and natural resource management People and Forest — Policy and Local Reality in Southeast Asia, the Russian Far East, and Japan M. Inoue, H. Isozaki, 2013-11-11 leading to an overall decrease in the world s forest cover The forests of Asia in particular have been strongly impacted A number of initiatives have suggested forest policy reforms and the need for the sustainable management of forests has been widely recognized and encouraged But because implementation of reforms at the local level has been insufficient it is imperative that local people begin to effectively participate in forest planning and management as well as in protected area management The Forest Conservation Project launched in April 1998 by the Institute for Global Environmental Strategies IGES has carried out research activities on forest strategies including policy analysis and on site surveys This book gives an overview of the project s research activities in its first three year phase April 1998 March 2001 Since viable forest strategies work best when based on the involvement of local people this report is addressed to stakeholders in the communities of the relevant countries including local people and authorities community based organizations experts national agencies and international institutions Forestry and Climate Change Peter H. Freer-Smith, Mark S.J. Broadmeadow, Jim M. Lynch, 2007-01-01 Climate change is one of the greatest challenges we face both in terms of its potential impact on our societies and the earth and the scale of international co operation that is needed to confront it Emerging as a component of the international dialogue on the environment and climate the role of forests in influencing earth systems will need to be assessed Drawing together perspectives from researchers and policy makers this book explores how forests will interact with the physical and natural world and with human society as the climate changes Also considered is how the world s forests can be managed to contribute to the mitigation of climate change and to maximize the full range of economic and non market benefits Providing an examination of the science a detailed consideration of the science policy interface and the international frameworks and conventions this book is valuable reading for all those interested in sustainable forest management climate change and the associated environmental sciences

Deforestation Around the World Paulo Moutinho,2012-03-30 Deforestation and forest degradation represent a significant fraction of the annual worldwide human induced emission of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere the main source of biodiversity losses and the destruction of millions of people s homes Despite local regional causes its consequences are global This book provides a general view about deforestation dynamics around the world incorporating analyses of its causes impacts and actions to prevent it Its 17 Chapters organized in three sections refer to deforestation impacts on climate soil biodiversity and human population but also describe several initiatives to prevent it A special emphasis is given to different remote sensing and mapping techniques that could be used as a source for decision makers and society to promote forest conservation and control deforestation

Why REDD will Fail Jessica DeShazo,Chandra Pandey,Zachary A. Smith,2016-02-05 Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and forest Degradation REDD attempts to address climate change from one angle by paying developing countries to slow or stop deforestation and forest degradation Trumpeted as a way to both mitigate climate change and assist countries with development REDD was presented as a win win solution However there have been few attempts to understand and analyse the overall framework Why REDD Will Fail argues that the important goals will not be met under the existing REDD regime unless the actual drivers of deforestation and forest degradation are diminished The book delves into the problematic details of the regime ranging from national capacity to monitor results the funding mechanism the definition of a forest leakage and the impetus behind the drivers of deforestation and forest degradation As the international community rallies around REDD and developed countries and companies are willing to commit substantial amounts to implement the scheme this books seeks to address whether REDD has the potential to achieve its purported goals This is an important

Day, 2014-05-13 This book fills a gap in the literature on environmental sustainability by addressing the topic from the perspective of social and economic development Progress in understanding and achieving sustainability requires the integration of scientific social economic and legal issues Yet progress in understanding and achieving sustainability will only be achieved through integration of scientific social economic and legal aspects A treatise on environmental sustainability should raise the current state of knowledge by proposing and recommending decision making efforts and breaking new ground with agendas aimed for the younger generation These younger scientists will be confronted with future uncertainty related to the set of crises that characterise the 21st Century e g ecological social food energy environmental climatic financial etc Currently there are a number of indicators that demonstrate that ecological conditions are being compromised globally These include reduced primary productivity reduction in biological complexity spreading pollution such as eutrophication ecological degradation in any continental basin coastal sea ecosystem reduction in biodiversity lowered resilience and slow recovery of damaged ecosystems and reduced ecological integrity All of these problems are related to social and economic pressure The challenge for most ecological systems is not only to establish the baseline for current ecosystem conditions but also to explore options for recovery and sustainability The latter involves ecological restoration where ecosystem and environmental services are maintained and enhanced These services are essential to social integration and economic development This book not only introduces a theoretical and conceptual framework for the topic but also analyses the uncertainty for sustainability because of dwindling natural resources It includes contributions providing a basis for public policies case studies integrating concepts and tools for solutions and a set of position papers addressing new agenda topics that will shape the 21st century The book will be useful for researchers professors and students alike as well as for all stakeholders from social economic and academic sectors Poverty - Forests Linkages Toolkit PROFOR.,2012
