Klubock shows how a militant working class community was established through the interplay between capitalist development state formation and the ideologies of gender In describing how the North American copper company attempted to reconfigure and reform the work and social cultural lives of men and women who migrated to the mine Klubock demonstrates how struggles between labor and capital took place on a gendered field of power and reconstituted social constructions of masculinity and femininity As a result Contested Communities describes more accurately than any previous study the nature of grassroots labor militancy working class culture and everyday politics of gender relations during crucial years of the Chilean Popular Front in the 1930s and 1940s Write Like a Man Ronnie Grinberg, 2024-03-26 How virility and Jewishness became hallmarks of postwar New York's combative intellectual scene In the years following World War II the New York intellectuals became some of the most renowned critics and writers in the country Although mostly male and Jewish this prominent group also included women and non Jews Yet all of its members embraced a secular Jewish machismo that became a defining characteristic of the contemporary experience Write like a Man examines how the New York intellectuals shared a uniquely American conception of Jewish masculinity that prized verbal confrontation polemical aggression and an unflinching style of argumentation Ronnie Grinberg paints illuminating portraits of figures such as Norman Mailer Hannah Arendt Lionel and Diana Trilling Mary McCarthy Norman Podhoretz Midge Decter and Irving Howe She describes how their construction of Jewish masculinity helped to propel the American Jew from outsider to insider even as they clashed over its meaning in a deeply anxious project of self definition Along the way Grinberg sheds light on their fraught encounters with the most contentious issues and ideas of the day from student radicalism and the civil rights movement to feminism Freudianism and neoconservatism A spellbinding chronicle of mid century America Write like a Man shows how a combative and intellectually grounded vision of Jewish manhood contributed to the masculinization of intellectual life and shaped some of the most important political and cultural debates of the postwar era Journalism of the Highest Realm Edward Price Bell, 2007-11-01 Once considered the best American newspaperman London has ever had Edward Price Bell 1869-1943 helped invent the ideal of a professional foreign news service at the late and great Chicago Daily News which in its heyday had the second largest daily newspaper circulation in the United States At the turn of the twentieth century professional overseas reporting was still an experiment The Chicago Daily News's visionary owner and publisher Victor Lawson was not certain how to organize the service or even what kind of news it should cover Bell who had distinguished himself as a young reporter in Chicago became the anchor for the service when Lawson sent him to London in 1900 The course he set established the standard for the New York Times and other prestigious American newspapers Unfortunately few journalists or scholars are familiar with Bell's contributions in part because his autobiography remained archived at the Newberry Library in Chicago In Journalism of the Highest Realm Jaci Cole and John Maxwell Hamilton have edited and annotated Bell's story focusing on his lively account of the early days of the Chicago Daily News's foreign service as well as the dramatic stories his correspondents covered James F Hoge Jr the last editor in chief of the Chicago Daily News and present editor of Foreign Affairs sets the stage for Bell s memoir with an informative foreword on the evolution of foreign news gathering over the last century A bright eyed midwestern teenager who learned journalism on the job at a small newspaper in Terre Haute Indiana Bell quickly established himself as an enterprising reporter Moving on to Chicago he became the Daily News s go to man He was assigned big stories and landed interviews with leading politicians a knack that became a trademark of his overseas reporting Over more than two decades in London Bell entrenched himself in politics and culture sending back thoughtful background and analysis of current events In his memoir Bell recounts his exclusive wartime interviews with Sir Edward Grey the British foreign secretary and Lord Richard Haldane the minister of war a later sit down with the charismatic Il Duce Benito Mussolini and his rather tense exchanges with former vice president Charles Dawes American ambassador to Britain The respect Bell commanded among British elites and his years of experience as a London insider thrust him into a diplomatic role Bell became an unofficial envoy to the British government and also a conduit for British views to the United States and its leaders After Bell returned to Chicago in the early 1920s the Daily News dispatched him on special missions to Europe and Asia to interview leaders about world peace His accounts were published in two books and earned him a nomination for the Nobel Peace Prize in the 1930s Despite this acclaim indeed to some extent because of it Bell fell out of favor when new owners acquired the newspaper in 1931 and he retired to the Mississippi Gulf Coast With Journalism of the Highest Realm Cole and Hamilton put this great newspaperman into a broader context As they show in their thoughtful introduction Bell and the Daily News continually grappled with problems that still bedevil overseas correspondence Foreign news they show has always been an enterprise that is at once valuable and vulnerable
