Ancestral Landscape:

Ancestral Landscapes of the Pueblo World James Elliot Snead, 2008 The eastern Pueblo heartland located in the northern Rio Grande country of New Mexico has fascinated archaeologists since the 1870s In Ancestral Landscapes of the Pueblo World James Snead uses an exciting new approach landscape archaeology to understand ancestral Pueblo communities and the way the people consciously or unconsciously shaped the land around them Snead provides detailed insight into ancestral Puebloan cultures and societies using an approach he calls contextual experience employing deep mapping and community scale analysis This strategy goes far beyond the standard archaeological approaches using historical ethnography and contemporary Puebloan perspectives to better understand how past and present Pueblo worldviews and meanings are imbedded in the land Snead focuses on five communities in the Pueblo heartland Burnt Corn T obimpaenge Tsikwaiye Los Aguajes and Tsankawi using the results of intensive archaeological surveys to discuss the changes that occurred in these communities between AD 1250 and 1500 He examines the history of each area comparing and contrasting them via the themes of provision identity and movement before turning to questions regarding social political and economic organization This revolutionary study thus makes an important contribution to landscape archaeology and explains how the Precolumbian Pueblo landscape was formed

The Evolution of Neolithic and Bronze Age Landscapes Alex Carnes, 2014-07-18 At the heart of this book is a comparative study of the stone rows of Dartmoor and northern Scotland a rare putatively Bronze Age megalithic typology that has mystified archaeologists for over a century

The Land of Gold Judith M. Bovensiepen, 2018-08-06 In the village of Funar located in the central highlands of Timor Leste the disturbing events of the twenty four year long Indonesian occupation are rarely articulated in narratives of suffering Instead the highlanders emphasize the significance of their return to the sacred land of the ancestors a place where gold is abundant and life is thought to originate On one hand this collective amnesia is due to villagers exclusion from contemporary nation building processes which bestow recognition only on those who actively participated in the resistance struggle against Indonesia On the other hand the cultural revival and the privileging of the ancestral landscape and traditions over narratives of suffering derive from a particular understanding of how human subjects are constituted Before life and after death humans and the land are composed of the same substance only during life are they separated To recover from the forced dislocation the highlanders experienced under the Indonesian occupation they thus seek to reestablish a mythical primordial unity with the land by reinvigorating ancestral practices Never leaving out of sight the intense political and emotional dilemmas imposed by the past on people s daily lives The Land of Gold seeks to go beyond prevailing theories of postconflict reconstruction that prioritize human relationships Instead it explores the significance of people s affective and ritual engagement with the environment and with their ancestors as survivors come to terms with the disruptive events of the past

Memory Traces Laura M. Amrhein, Cynthia Kristan-Graham, 2015-10-28 In Memory Traces art historians and archaeologists come together to examine the nature of sacred space in Mesoamerica Through five well known and important centers of political power and artistic invention in Mesoamerica Tetitla at Teotihuacan Tula Grande the Mound of the Building Columns at El Tajín the House of the Phalli at Chichén Itz and Tonina contributors explore the process of recognizing and defining sacred space how sacred spaces were viewed and used both physically and symbolically and what theoretical approaches are most useful for art historians and archaeologists seeking to understand these places Memory Traces acknowledges that the creation use abandonment and reuse of sacred space has a strongly recursive relation to collective memory and meanings linked to the places in question and reconciles issues of continuity and discontinuity of memory in ancient Mesoamerican sacred spaces It will be of interest to students and scholars of Mesoamerican studies and material culture art historians architectural historians and cultural anthropologists

Empowered by Ancestors Cheung Hiu Yu, 2021-02-08 Empowered by Ancestors Controversy over the Imperial Temple in Song China 960 1279 examines the enduring tension between cultural authority and political power in imperial China by inquiring into Song ritual debates over the Imperial Temple During these debates Song educated elites utilized various discourses to rectify temple rituals in their own ways In this process political interests were less emphasized and even detached from ritual discussions Meanwhile Song scholars of particular schools developed various ritual theories that were used to reshape society in later periods Hence the Song ritual debates exemplified the great transmission of ancestral ritual norms from the top stratum of imperial court downward to society In this book the author attempts to provide a lens through which historians anthropologists experts in Chinese Classics and scholars from other disciplines can explore Chinese ritual in its intellectual social and political forms Cheung knows the history and culture of China's Imperial Temple system best and pulls together a decade of research to share his mature reflections Most modern scholars have avoided this arcane institution Cheung clarifies its role in Song political culture its influence in late imperial China and its legacy in contemporary constructions of cultural memory and legitimacy Hoyt Cleveland Tillman Arizona State University coauthor of Cultural Authority and Political Culture in China Exploring Issues with the Zhongyong and the Daotong during the Song Jin and Yuan Dynasties Professor Cheung helps us wrap our minds around the weight Song Confucian scholars put on reviving ancient rituals He does this by digging deeply into their positions on the arrangement of the Imperial Ancestral Shrine and placing their contentions in both political and intellectual contexts Patricia Ebrey University of Washington author of Confucianism and Family Rituals in Imperial China A Social History of Writing about Rites

Gondwana Landscapes in southern South America Jorge Rabassa, Cliff Ollier, 2014-04-11 This book presents extensive and new information on the geomorphology of cratonic areas of southern South America It includes valuable data relating to recurrent controversies in general geomorphology beyond the boundaries of South America and reveals the great need to integrate many different aspects of geomorphology in regional studies With the focus on ancient landscapes and especially on planation surfaces it addresses the question of what processes could form such huge features and how they can be preserved for so long Many of the papers include maps of planation surfaces or other geomorphic units The volume brings together an up to date state of the art collection of information on South American geomorphology and shows beyond doubt that geomorphology is on the same time scale as global tectonics biological evolution and major climate change Some of the papers describe ancient geomorphological features of areas that have never been studied or published before while others describe regions which are totally unknown to the public The scope of the book extends from tropical latitudes north of the Tropic of Capricorn south to freezing Patagonia in the roaring fifties more than 3 500 km from north to south Including over one thousand citations from geological and geomorphological literature this volume will serve as a starting point for a whole new phase of studies of the fascinating landscape history of southern South America

Memory and Remembering in Early Irish Literature Sarah Künzler, 2023-12-04 Ireland possesses an early and exceptionally rich medieval vernacular tradition in which memory plays a key role What attitudes to remembering and forgetting are expressed in secular early Irish texts How do the texts conceptualise the past and what does this conceptualisation tell us about the present and future Who mediates and validates different versions of the past and how is future remembrance guaranteed This study approaches such questions through close readings of individual texts It centres on three major aspects of medieval Irish memory culture places and landscapes the provision of information about the past by miraculously old eye witnesses and the personal social and cultural impact of forgetting The discussions shed light on the relationship between memory and forgetting and explore the connections between the past present and future This shows the fascinating spatio temporal identity constructions in medieval Ireland and links the Irish texts to the broader European world The monograph makes this rich literary sources available to an interdisciplinary audience and is of interest to both a general medievalist audience and those working in Cultural Memory Studies

Beauty in Architecture Nele De Raedt, Maarten Delbeke, 2025-09-18 Beauty in Architecture brings together the views of architects artists critics historians and philosophers to explore how beauty can again become an integral part of discussions about architecture. Despite its recent resurgence in the public debate about the built environment, the notion of beauty remains problematic and contested in critical discourse about architecture. When the topic is addressed, it is either treated with suspicion, historicized or contextualised, or substituted with other, often equally problematic terms such as order, legibility, atmosphere or character. This collection brings together voices from theory, scholarship and practice to show that a conversation about beauty in architecture is necessary, not only because the general public speaks easily and frequently about beauty in architecture, but also because much can be gained from taking it seriously. Bringing together a diverse range of perspectives, the essays reflect on the themes, categories and concepts that should be part of such a conversation and show how talking about beauty engages important reflections on its ontology and what it involves: values, communities, collectives and shared histories, environment, identity and political or legal mechanisms and institutions. A must read for designers and theorists alike, this volume allows readers to discover new strategies and concepts to foster the discussion of beauty in architecture.

Architecture Inspired by Nature María Rosa Cervera Sardá, Elena-Codina Duşoiu, Tana Nicoleta Lascu, 2023-08-25. The book brings together the research completed during 10 editions of International Seminars of Bionics organized by the School of Architecture of the University of Alcalá de Henares, Madrid, several of them in partnership with the Ion Mincu University of Architecture and Urbanism Bucharest, carried out in Spain and in Romania. The articles here consider advanced bionic design principles, implementing them to an impressive variety of application fields, including but not limited to urban planning and landscape, public space, architecture and building structures, design and detailing, application of natural dynamic processes, bio-digital architecture, innovative materials based on living organisms, micro-algae and nano-modified materials. A particular focus is given to light and perception of light. To illustrate the principles developed, this contributed volume includes descriptions and full color images of the experimental projects created during the workshops held in the framework of these ISB meetings: Learning from Nature: Integrating Bionics (2009), Adaptability, Efficiency and Biostructures (2010), Bionics and Innovation (2011), Forms and Structures Inspired by Nature (2016), 2017 Furniture Inspired by Natural Models (2018), Relation between Structure and Envelope, Light Structures (2019), Light from Nature to Architecture, Structures Inspired in Nature (2020), Light in Architecture and Design: A Bionic Perspective (2021), Sustainable Thinking and Bionics (2022).

Archaeology and Preservation of Gendered Landscapes Sherene Baugher, Suzanne M. Spencer-Wood, 2010-03-11. Historical archaeology of landscapes initially followed the pattern of Classical Archaeology by studying elite men's gardens. Over time, particularly in North America, the field has expanded to cover larger settlement areas, but still often with ungendered and elite focus. The editors of this volume seek to fill this important gap in the literature by presenting studies of gendered power dynamics and their effect on minority groups in North America. Case studies presented include communities of Native Americans, African Americans, multi-ethnic groups, religious communities and industrial communities. Just as the research focus has previously neglected the groups presented here so too has funding to preserve important archaeological sites As the contributors to this important volume present a new framework for understanding the archaeology of religious and social minority groups they also demonstrate the importance of preserving the cultural landscapes particularly of minority groups from destruction by the modern dominant culture A full and complete picture of cultural preservation has to include all of the groups that interacted form it

Militarized Landscapes Chris Pearson, Peter Coates, Tim Cole, 2010-06-03 The black smoke billowing from burning oil wells during the Gulf War of 1990 91 directed media and public attention towards war s devastating environmental impact Yet even before the first bomb is dropped preparation for warfare materially and imaginatively reshapes rural landscapes and environments This volume is the first to explore the comparative histories and geographies of militarized landscapes Moving beyond the narrow definition of militarized landscapes as theatres of war it treats them as simultaneously material and cultural sites that have been partially or fully mobilized to achieve military aims Ranging from the Korean DMZ to nuclear testing sites in the American West and from Gettysburg to Salisbury Plain Militarized Landscapes focuses on these often secretive hidden dangerous and invariably controversial sites that occupy huge swathes of national territories

Infrastructure in Archaeological Discourse M. Grace Ellis, Carly M. DeSanto, Meghan C. L. Howey, 2024-03-12 This volume expands perspectives on infrastructure that are rooted in archaeological discourse and material evidence The compiled chapters represent new and emerging ideas within archaeology about what infrastructure is how it can materialize and how it impacts and reflects human behavior social organization and identity in the past as well as the present Three goals central to the work include 1 expand the definition of infrastructure using archaeological frameworks and evidence from a wide range of social historical and geographic contexts 2 explore how new archaeological perspectives on infrastructure can help answer anthropological questions pertaining to social organization group collaboration and community consensus and negotiation and 3 examine the broader implications of an archaeological engagement with infrastructure and contributions to contemporary infrastructural studies Chapters explore important aspects of infrastructure including its relationality scale history and relevance and provide archaeological case studies that examine the social repercussions of infrastructure and the various ways it has materialized in the past This compilation ultimately expands the discourse of infrastructure in archaeology and social sciences more broadly Social scientists can turn to this volume for insights into an archaeologically informed perspective on infrastructure relevant to the study of past and current human behavior

Mobility, Markets and Indigenous Socialities Cecilie Vindal Ødegaard, 2016-04-15 Exploring how people from Andean communities seek progress and social mobility by moving to the cities Cecilie degaard demonstrates the changing significance of kinship reciprocity and ritual in an urban context Through a focus on people s involvement in land occupations and local associations labour and trade degaard examines the dialectics between popular practices and neoliberal state policies in processes of urbanization The making and un making of notions of the Indigenous communal work and gender is central in this analysis and is discussed against the historical backdrop of the land occupations in Peruvian cities since the 1930s Through its close ethnographic description of everyday life in a new urban neighbourhood this book reveals how social and spatial categories and boundaries are continually negotiated in people s quest for mobility and progress Cecilie degaard argues that conventional meanings of prosperity and progress are significantly altered in interaction with Andean understandings of reciprocity By combining a unique ethnographic account with original theoretical arguments the book provides new insight into the cultural cosmological and political dimensions of mobility progress and market participation
