Copper Artifacts In Late Eastern Woodlands Prehistory:

Copper Artifacts in Late Eastern Woodlands Prehistory Claire Garber Goodman, 1984 Prehistoric Copper Mining in Michigan John R. Halsey, 2018-01-01 Isle Royale and the counties that line the northwest coast of Michigan's Upper Peninsula are called Copper Country because of the rich deposits of native copper there. In the nineteenth century, explorers and miners discovered evidence of prehistoric copper mining in this region. They used those ancient diggings as a guide to establishing their own much larger mines and in the process destroyed the archaeological record left by the prehistoric miners. Using mining reports, newspaper accounts, personal letters, and other sources, this book reconstructs what these nineteenth-century discoverers found, how they interpreted the material remains of prehistoric activity, and what they did with the stone, wood, and copper tools they found at the prehistoric sites. This volume represents an exhaustive compilation of the early written and published accounts of mines and mining in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. It will prove a valuable resource to current and future scholars. Through these early historic accounts of prospectors and miners, Halsey provides a vivid picture of what once could be seen. John M. O'Shea, curator of Great Lakes Archaeology, University of Michigan Museum of Anthropological Archaeology.

Prehistoric Exchange Systems in North America Timothy G. Baugh, Jonathon E. Ericson, 2013-03-14 In this unique volume, archaeologists examine the changing economic structure of trade in North America over a period of 6,000 years. Organized by geographical and chronological divisions, each chapter focuses on trade in one of nine regions from the Archaic through the late prehistoric period. Each contribution explores neighboring areas to illustrate the complexity of North American exchange. By charting the economic structure of these regions, archaeologists, economic anthropologists, and economic geographers gain greater insight into the dynamics of North American trade and exchange on a continental-wide basis.

Archaeology of the Mississippian Culture Peter N. Peregrine, 2013-04-11 First published in 1996, in recent years there has been a general increase of scholarly and popular interest in the study of ancient civilizations. Yet because archaeologists and other scholars tend to approach their study of ancient peoples and places almost exclusively from their own disciplinary perspectives, there has long been a lack of general bibliographic and other research resources available for the non-specialist. This series is intended to fill that need.

Archaeometallurgy in Global Perspective Benjamin W. Roberts, Christopher P. Thornton, 2014-01-07 The study of ancient metals in their social and cultural contexts has been a topic of considerable interest in archaeology and ancient history for decades, partly due to the modern dependence on technology and man-made materials. The formal study of Archaeometallurgy began in the 1970s, 1980s, and has seen a recent growth in techniques, data, and theoretical movements. This comprehensive sourcebook on Archaeometallurgy provides an overview of earlier research as well as a review of modern techniques, written in an approachable way. Covering an extensive range of archaeological time periods and regions, this volume will be a valuable resource for those studying archaeology worldwide. It provides a clear, straightforward look at the available methodologies.

including Smelting processes Slag analysis Technical Ceramics Archaeology of Mining and Field Survey Ethnoarchaeology Chemical Analysis and Provenance Studies Conservation Studies With chapters focused on most geographic regions of Archaeometallurgical inquiry researchers will find practical applications for metallurgical techniques in any area of their study Ben Roberts is a specialist in the early metallurgy and later prehistoric archaeology of Europe He was the Curator of the European Copper and Bronze Age collections at the British Museum between 2007 and 2012 and is now a Lecturer in Prehistoric Europe in the Department of Archaeology at the Durham University UK Chris Thornton is a specialist in the ancient metallurgy of the Middle East combining anthropological theory with archaeometrical analysis to understand the development and diffusion of metallurgical technologies throughout Eurasia He is currently a Consulting Scholar of the University of Pennsylvania Museum where he received his PhD in 2009 and the Lead Program Officer of research grants at the National Geographic Society

Early Art of the Southeastern Indians Susan C. Power, 2004 Early Art of the Southeastern Indians is a visual journey through time highlighting some of the most skillfully created art in native North America The remarkable objects described and pictured here many in full color reveal the hands of master artists who developed lapidary and weaving traditions established centers for production of shell and copper objects and created the first ceramics in North America Presenting artifacts originating in the Archaic through the Mississippian periods from thousands of years ago through A D 1600 Susan C Power introduces us to an extraordinary assortment of ceremonial and functional objects including pipes vessels figurines and much more Drawn from every corner of the Southeast from Louisiana to the Ohio River valley from Florida to Oklahoma the pieces chronicle the emergence of new media and the mastery of new techniques as they offer clues to their creators widening awareness of their physical and spiritual worlds The most complex works writes Power were linked to male and sometimes female leaders Wearing bold ensembles consisting of symbolic colors sacred media and richly complex designs the leaders controlled large ceremonial centers that were noteworthy in regional art history such as Etowah Georgia Spiro Oklahoma Cahokia Illinois and Moundville Alabama Many objects were used locally others circulated to distant locales Power comments on the widening of artists subjects starting with animals and insects moving to humans then culminating in supernatural combinations of both and she discusses how a piece s artistic language could function as a visual shorthand in local style and expression yet embody an iconography of regional proportions The remarkable achievements of these southeastern artists delight the senses and engage the mind while giving a brief glimpse into the rich symbolic world of feathered serpents and winged beings Archaic Societies Thomas E. Emerson,Dale L. McElrath,Andrew C. Fortier,2012-02-01 Sweeping and detailed this long awaited volume is an indispensable guide to the Archaic period across the midcontinent Archaeologists throughout the region share the latest excavation results and analytical perspectives to reveal and reinterpret the worlds of those Native peoples who lived there for some 9 000 years up to about 3 000 years ago Of particular concern is the establishment of relative and absolute chronologies for the Archaic period the relationships between the artifacts left behind and the peoples who made and used them and the changing interactions between cultures climate and landscape Archaeologists offer useful up to date overviews of Archaic societies assessment of stratigraphic sequences and detailed discussions of finds and interpretations from the Mississippi and Ohio river regions and the Great Lakes Comprehensive and accessible this landmark book is a must for anyone wanting to understand a crucial but little understood period in North America s prehistory Mississippian Village Textiles at Wickliffe Penelope B. Drooker,1992-09-30 Because textiles rarely are preserved in the archaeological record outside of deserts and permafrost areas in many regions of the world very little is known about their characteristics functions production technology or socioeconomic importance While this fact is also true of organic fabrics produced during the Mississippian period in southeastern North America a wide variety of Mississippian textiles has been preserved in the form of impressions on large pottery vessels From attribute analysis of 1 574 fabrics impressed on Wickliffe pottery sherds and comparison of the impressions with extant Mississippian textile artifacts Drooker presents the first comparative analysis of these materials and the most inclusive available summary of information on Mississippian textiles The Mississippian Emergence Bruce D. Smith,2007-10-07 This collection addressing a topic of ongoing interest and debate in American archaeology examines the evolution of ranked chiefdoms in the Midwestern and Southeastern United States during the period A D 700 1200 The volume brings together a broad range of professionals engaged in the fieldwork that has vitalized the theoretical debates on the development of Mississippi Valley cultures The initial chapter provides a general discussion of various explanations for the rise of these distinctive ranked societies in the eastern United States A D 750 1050 and sets the stage for the interdisciplinary analysis from multiple viewpoints that follows The first section discusses a cluster of individual sites in the Midwest and Southeast and reveals the parallel and occasionally divergent paths followed by the inhabitants as they transitioned from Late Woodland into Mississippian lifeways The chapters in the second half discuss by region the emergence of ranked agricultural societies and examine how these networks played a role in the large scale and roughly contemporaneous socio political development Contributors C Clifford Boyd Jr James A Brown R P Stephen Davis Jr John

House John E Kelly Richard A Kerber Dan F Morse Phyllis Morse Martha Ann Rolingson Gerald F Schroedl Bruce D Smith Paul D Welch Howard D Winters Archaeological Geology of North America Norman P. Lasca, Jack Donahue, 1990 This volume covers the geological aspects of archaeology from both regional and topical perspectives in an attempt to reflect the diverse and heterogeneous nature of archaeological geology of the 28 chapters some are site specific archaeological investigations that typify a variety of other sites Others summarize the archaeological geology of re The Ascent of Chiefs Timothy R. Pauketat, 1994-09-30 Provides a theoretical explanation of how prehistoric Cahokia became a stratified society Considering Cahokia in terms of class struggle Pauketat claims that the political consolidation in this region of the Mississippi Valley happened quite suddenly around A D 1000 after which the lords of Cahokia innovated strategies to preserve their power and ultimately emerged as divine chiefs The new ideas and new data in this volume will invigorate the debate surrounding one of the most important developments in North American prehistory The Juntunen Site and the Late Woodland Prehistory of the Upper Great Lakes Area Alan McPherron, 1967-01-01 The Juntunen site was primarily a lakeside fishing village where sturgeon and whitefish were taken during their spawning season The site which is about 600 feet from the shore of Lake Huron on the west end of Bois Blanc Island was inhabited at intervals between about AD 800 and AD 1400 and is considered a Late Woodland site In this volume author Alan McPherron describes and analyzes the archaeological remains found at the site including pottery lithics copper bone burials and habitation features Wonderful Power Susan R. Martin, 1999 Long before the arrival of European settlers Native Americans in the Lake Superior basin mined and worked copper and traded it well beyond the region They directed white settlers to copper lodes and explained the mineral s significance and wonderful power Wonderful Power examines the archaeological record to relate the story of that unique industry Susan Martin has collected critical but scattered information about the uses of ancient copper to address long standing puzzles over how long it had been used where it was mined and who these ancient coppersmiths were Michigan Archaeologist , 1996 Ducktown Smoke , 2011 Ducktown Smoke Mississippian Polity and Politics on the Gulf Coastal Plain Patrick C. Livingood, 2010 Using research at the Pevey 22Lw510 and Lowe Steen 22Lw511 mound sites on the Pearl River in Lawrence County Mississippi this book explores the social and political mechanisms by which these polities may have interacted with each other and the geographic limit to the effects of inter polity competition Thermoplastic Material Selection Eric R. Larson, 2015-04-30 Thermoplastic Material Selection A Practical Guide presents current information on how proper material selection is a critical component of any manufactured product The text is a practical guide to a difficult process giving the reader a fundamental grounding in thermoplastic materials and providing the tools they need to save time money and frustration The book provides an overview of the most commonly used thermoplastic materials including discussions of the different chemical families plastics categories and material grades and the implications of these differences on the material selection process It provides fresh insights on the traditional methods of material selection based on performance and cost and also discusses the use of non traditional methods based on subjective evaluation Subsequent sections include references on tools that can be used to conduct further exploration how to accurately select the most suitable material writing an effective material specification and working with material suppliers and distributors Presents current information on how proper thermoplastics material selection is a critical component of any manufactured product A practical guide to a difficult process giving the reader a fundamental grounding in thermoplastics material selection and providing the tools they need to save time money and frustration Delivers insights on the traditional methods of material selection based on performance and cost and introduces nontraditional methods based on size form appearance and feel Tales of Gotham, Historical Archaeology, Ethnohistory and Microhistory of New York City Meta F. Janowitz, Diane Dallal, 2013-02-03 Historical Archaeology of New York City is a collection of narratives about people who lived in New York City during the seventeenth eighteenth and nineteenth centuries people whose lives archaeologists have encountered during excavations at sites where these people lived or worked The stories are ethnohistorical or microhistorical studies created using archaeological and documentary data As microhistories they are concerned with particular people living at particular times in the past within the framework of world events The world events framework will be provided in short introductions to chapters grouped by time periods and themes The foreword by Mary Beaudry and the afterword by LuAnne DeCunzo bookend the individual case studies and add theoretical weight to the volume Historical Archaeology of New York City focuses on specific individual life stories or stories of groups of people as a way to present archaeological theory and research Archaeologists work with material culture artifacts to recreate daily lives and study how culture works this book is an example of how to do this in a way that can attract people interested in history as well as in anthropological theory
