Social Cohesion and Social Change in Europe Gerard Boucher, Yunas Samad, 2017-10-02 Social cohesion has had different meanings for people depending on their background their interests where they live in the world and at what time they lived In the social sciences social cohesion is a term used to explain the social and cultural consequences of structural changes related to industrialization and modernity In the European Union structural changes which relate to globalization European integration the restructuring of welfare states ageing societies and transitions from communism have often led to more insecurity and material inequalities between people Higher rates of immigration and issues related to the integration of migrants and their descendants have also led to anxieties about the preservation of national cultures and identities This book argues that perceived crises in social cohesion in Europe have more to do with the consequences of structural change rather than the failure of multiculturalism and immigration It looks at the relationship between social cohesion and social change in Europe focusing on the European Union as a whole and on urban areas such as Paris France and Bradford UK This book was originally published as a special issue of Patterns of Prejudice

Diasporas and Transportation of Homeland Conflicts Élise Féron, Bahar Baser, 2024-05-07 This book explores the transformation and reinvention of conflict generated diaspora groups politics in countries of residence Numerous narratives link diasporas and conflicts diasporas are seen alternatively as peace wreckers or peace makers as products of forced migration related to conflicts or as targets of securitization policies Transported conflicts occurring within and between diasporas in their countries of residence however remain relatively underexplored tend to be misunderstood and often associated with criminal or terrorist activities The chapters in this volume draw our attention to various interconnected temporalities explaining patterns of conflict transportation such as the temps long of diasporic mobilisation the here and now of what is happening in both host and home countries and micro temporalities and diasporans life trajectories Finally the contributions demonstrate that patterns shapes and even occurrence of conflict transportation vary according to scale and space Highly politicized forms of confrontation are not necessarily representative of everyday interactions between diaspora groups which can entail discrete but tangible forms of cooperation and even solidarity This edited volume calls for nuancing our approach to the links between diasporas and conflicts to avoid falling into the essentialisation trap The chapters in this book were originally published in *Ethnopolitics Documents. Latvia's Transition to a Market Economy M. Nissinen, 1998-11-22 The postcommunist transitions to a market economy raised doubts about the political sustainability of an economic reform under democracy At the same time they turned the attention to the centrality of political factors in economic policy making Latvia has succeeded in proceeding into the consolidation phase of its market reforms while remaining committed to both political pluralism and macroeconomic austerity Even if politics were not treated as a mere constraint the basic question is still how are the government's adjustment choices modified in the political process
