Seth,2024-10-10 Tale of Four Indian Cities presents a vivid picture of how the British political regime reorganized the structure of the Indian economy to suit its own objectives While doing so the regime also affected the geographical distribution of economic activities This resulted in the decline of native cities and the increased prosperity of colonial cities To reveal how British colonial power brought about such changes in the Indian subcontinent the book narrates the account of two pairs of native and colonial cities Dacca and Calcutta from the Indian Eastern coast and Surat and Bombay from the Western coast These were major centres of manufacturing shared a common history and experienced the consequences of three different political dispensations the Mughal Empire the East India Company and the British Raj Accessibly written the volume will be of great interest to students scholars and researchers of Indian colonial business and economic history It will also be of interest to the general reader Routledge Library Editions: Urban History Various Authors,2021-02-25 The volumes in this set originally published between 1940 and 1994 draw together research by leading academics in the area of welfare and the welfare state and provide a rigorous examination of related key issues The volumes examine welfare policy equality poverty class government social policy unemployment and social services whilst also exploring the general principles and practices of welfare and the welfare state in various countries This set will be of particular interest to students of sociology health and political studies respectively The Mughals and the North-East Sajal Nag,2023-07-17 There is a perception that the region of north east India maintained its splendid isolation and remained outside the reach of the Mughals and did not have a pre colonial past The present book is an attempt to decenter and demolish the said perceptions and asserts that north east India had a medieval past through linkage with the dominant central power in India the Mughals The eastern frontier of this Mughal Empire was constituted by a number of states like Bengal Koch Bihar Assam Manipur Dimas Jaintia Cachar Tripura Khasi confederation Chittagong Lushai and the Nagas Of these some areas like Bengal were an integral part of the Mughal Empire while others like Koch Bihar and Assam were in and out of the empire Tripura Manipur Jaintia and Cachar were frequently overrun by the Mughals whenever the State was short of revenue and withdrew soon without incorporating them in the state. Despite not being a formal part of the Mughal Empire, the society, economy, polity, and culture of the north-east India, however, had been majorly impacted by the Mughal presence. The brief but effective advent of the Mughals had supplanted certain political and revenue institutions in various states. It generated trade and commerce which linked it to the rest of India. A number of wandering Sufi saints, Islamic missionaries, imprisoned Mughal soldiers, and officers were settled in various states which resulted in a substantial Muslim population growth in the region. Besides the population, there are numerous Islamic and syncretic institutions, cultures, and shrines which dot the entire region.

Dhaka Urban Food System Atlas 2023 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2023-12-20. The food system of Dhaka, the Bangladeshi capital area, is undergoing deep and rapid transformations. Such changes are associated with the process of accelerated urbanization and sustained economic growth experienced by Bangladesh. In supporting a sustainable food system transformation in urban areas, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) is giving specific emphasis to the dynamics of the system's foundations. This Dhaka food system atlas offers a perspective of the urban food system encompassing production, processing, distribution, consumption habits, and disposal. The atlas specifically maps out various factors and actors of the urban food sector, including infrastructure such as markets. This atlas also shares some current trends, food system outcomes, as well as perspectives as to possible future scenarios to 2041 for food consumption for the megacity. The Support for Modelling, Planning, and Improving Dhaka's Food System (DFS) project developed this atlas as data-driven insights to inform policies and interventions for improving food security, nutrition, and a sustainable food system in the Dhaka metropolitan area.
