AP U.S. Government and Politics – Learning About the Exam

Directions: Please complete this handout by using this link and other current Internet resources. As you complete this, we have fewer than 154 school days to go!!

1. Describe in detail each of the two parts of the AP U.S. Government exam:

Section one of the AP exam has 55 questions and 4 different parts. It is divided into concept applications, SCOTUS applications, Data analysis and Source analysis. The second section of the test is also split into 4 different parts and 4 different questions. Question 1 deals with concept applications. Question 2 deals with Data Analysis. Question 3 deals with SCOTUS applications and question 4 deals with Argumentation.

2. Describe how each section is timed:

Multiple choice is 80 minutes which is about 1.5 minutes per question. Free response is 100 minutes which leaves 25 minutes per question.

3. Look at some sample questions. Of the two parts, which do you think will be easiest for you? Why? Which will prove most difficult? Why?

I think that multiple choice questions will be easier for me as there is a set amount of answers per question which gives you a chance no matter what. For free response if you don't know the answer to the question you will not be able to answer with a 25% success rate and each question is worth much more than each question in multiple choice.

4. Look at the five units of study. Which of these seems most interesting to you? Why? Explain with more than one sentence.

Civil Liberties and Civil Rights seems interesting as it covers the most amount of subjects. It says that the unit covers Constitutionalism, Liberty and Order, Civic Participation in a Representative Democracy, and Competing policymaking interests. This is 4 topics which is the most out of all of the different units.

5. Browse through the required documents. Which of them is the most interesting to you? Why?
