Sarah K. Danielsson,2016-03-16 Whilst terms such as Lebensraum are commonly associated with National Socialist ideology of the 1930s and 40s ideas of racial living space were in fact generated in the previous decades by an international geographic community of explorers and academics Focusing on one of the most influential figures within this group Sven Hedin this is the first study that systematically connects the geographic community to the intellectual history of the development of National Socialist ideology and genocidal practices The book demonstrates how colonial racial and nationalistic policies were often spearheaded by explorers and geographers such as Hedin In Germany Britain France and Russia their positions as publicly recognized authors and reputable academics made them highly influential with politicians Whilst this influence was to become most visible within Hitler s Germany the debates were not by any means restricted to or even originated in Germany Germany was the home of some of the most prominent geographers but this scientific community had a tradition of international debate and exchange with especially British French and Russian geographic societies and institutions Many issues that were later discussed and championed by National Socialist ideology were aired and debated in this international setting raising important questions about the international character and impact of National Socialism Tracing the intellectual history of the international geographic community and its relationship to National Socialism this study provides an assessment of Hedin's close involvement with the Nazi elite as a culmination of decades of political and scientific work In so doing the book uncovers a long ignored or overlooked important connection between exploration geographers and genocide

Oil Exploration, Diplomacy, and Security in the Early Cold War Roberto Cantoni, 2017-03-27 The importance of oil for national military industrial complexes appeared more clearly than ever in the Cold War This volume argues that the confidential acquisition of geoscientific knowledge was paramount for states not only to provide for their own energy needs but also to buttress national economic and geostrategic interests and protect energy security By investigating the postwar rebuilding and expansion of French and Italian oil industries from the second half of the 1940s to the early 1960s this book shows how successive administrations in those countries devised strategies of oil exploration and transport aiming at achieving a higher degree of energy autonomy and setting up powerful oil agencies that could implement those strategies However both within and outside their national territories these two European countries had to confront the new Cold War balances and the interests of the two superpowers
