Coram Deo Reflections On Presence:

Coram Deo Kurtis Pearson, CFP®,2005-03 There is always something bigger going on in our lives than we can know or expect In truth the story of our lives is being written right in front of us The story line is being revealed every day For an author to interrupt your story line is unfair The best another can do is share his own story looking for commonality in humanity It is my desire that you enjoy the simple stories and glean a nugget of truth you can use in your own journey Then hopefully you will find new ways to stand squarely in the middle of your own life and understand what is going on in a way you never have before Kurtis S Pearson CFP R

Coram Deo Caryn D. Riswold,2006-07-01 In order to adequately address the issues of atonement and christology we must understand how it is that we think about the relationship between God and the human being The way in which we understand and interpret the life and death of Jesus and his role within that relationship then impacts our theology of the sacraments particularly the eucharist Further the questions continue to confront and be confronted by my inescapable identity as a Lutheran Christian I use the term inescapable because I find myself working from and with theologies and theologians that are unabashedly critical of patriarchal religious doctrine and paternal theological construction yet I cannot be convinced that the tradition which formed me is irretrievable or irrelevant I am seeking to use Luther as one of my sources but I am working to reinterpret him and offer a more adequate constructive alternative that embodies what is useable in his tradition I find the potential for a liberating message within Christian theology and I find a critical theological resource in Luther from the Introduction

Christian Ethical Implications of the Presence of the Kingdom as God's Performative Action in the Light of Speech Act Theory Anna Cho ,2019 This book presents a novel Biblical ethical hermeneutic approach that emerges from an understanding of the presence of the kingdom of God in the Biblical text The approach is predicated upon the use of speech act theory abbreviated as SAT in relation to kingdom language in the Biblical text The approach shows how the notion of kingdom language as God s divine activity is elicited in the contemporary Christian's life by allowing it to operate beyond the world of the Biblical text. In other words, this approach establishes a Biblical ethical hermeneutic bridge between the text and its context and the context of contemporary readers of the text. The alternative linguistic epistemology in SAT considers the principle of the kingdom of God in the past locution level, the present illocutionary level, and the future perlocutionary level. The dynamic equivalences of the past, present, and future of the kingdom of God based on an SAT approach to the Biblical text can inform Christian ethical theory and moral action in the present world. It can also provide a new moral sensibility in relation to God's sovereignty and the responsibility of Christians in contemporary society.

Timing Grace Johan Ciliiers, 2019-08-13 In this companion volume to A Space for Grace, Johan Ciliiers delves into some of the most profound theological underpinnings of preaching. Drawing on his extraordinary depth and breadth of scholarship, Ciliiers examines the aesthetic, qualitative, and relational dimensions of sermonic time. Faithful preaching, he argues, is an art of speaking the now of grace, which is inextricably linked to past and future but is simultaneously a dynamic event filled with the revelatory presence of God. Along with helpful reflections on pieces of visual art, Ciliiers provides numerous sample sermons as well as several detailed sermon analyses.

On Holy Ground Keith R. Anderson, 2025-06-24 There is a universal human need to understand our identity and find belonging and sacred purpose in the most daily moments of our lives. When we know our identity as the beloved of God, our lives take on practices that are urgently needed in our divisive culture today: starting with compassion, hospitality, and discourse and joining a movement to boldly proclaim Abba's love. Sacred purpose involves everything we do on holy ground, which is where God walks with us before us and alongside us in time and place. As we enter the fray, we find ways to live as people of justice, grace, and conviction, seeking the kingdom of God as our priority as we address those issues that are so charged and divisive today: race, inclusion, exclusion, individualism, and trauma. Within the image of an ecosystem, we understand that Scripture, the living word, points us to Jesus, the incarnate word, who calls us to sacred purpose: a living relationship of following Jesus at our own altars in the world for all of our lives.

Hearing John's Voice M. Eugene Boring, 2019-11-05 This book is written in the conviction that the church is called into being and nourished by the Word of God that comes through Scripture. But how can Scripture offer any specific guidance for hearers' lives today? What are modern readers to make of the dragons and slaughtered lambs in the book of Revelation? What are we to make of a man who turns water into wine while comparing himself to bread? Can people today know what the Bible says and means? The world of the Bible is strange and distant, not only in time and space but also in language, culture, and in its basic assumptions about reality. The first task in both pulpit and pew is not to be in too great a hurry to overcome this distance but to acknowledge it and respect it. Communication across the gap is the task of the church's preachers and teachers. Drawing on his years of teaching and study, Gene Boring offers a way of opening the ears of those who take the message of the Bible seriously: a message from a world different from our own. Beginning with Revelation, Gene provides a historically informed and pastorally sensitive reading of the various Johannine

Humanity in God's Image Claudia Welz,2016-08-18 How can we in our times understand the biblical concept that human beings have been created in the image of an invisible God This is a perennial but increasingly pressing question that lies at the heart of theological anthropology Humanity in God s Image An Interdisciplinary Exploration clarifies the meaning of this concept traces different Jewish and Christian interpretations of being created in God's image and reconsiders the significance of the imago Dei in a post-Holocaust context. As normative counterfactual notions, human dignity and the imago Dei challenge us to see more. Claudia Welz offers an interdisciplinary exploration of theological and ethical visions of the invisible. By analysing poetry and art, Welz exemplifies human self-understanding in the interface between the visual and the linguistic. The content of the imago Dei cannot be defined apart from the image carrier, an embodied creature. Compared to verbal, visual and mental images, how does this creature as a living image refer to God like a metaphor, a mimetic mirror or an elusive trace? Combining hermeneutical and phenomenological perspectives with philosophy of religion and philosophy of language, semiotics, art history and literary studies, Welz regards the imago Dei as a complex sign that is at once iconic, indexical and symbolical, pointing beyond itself.

Modern Trinitarian Perspectives John Thompson, 1994. Provides a survey of modern thought on the doctrine of the Trinity, which has recently enjoyed a revival of interest. The author examines the work of important theologians and their views on the relationship of the trinitarian doctrine to Scripture, the Church, philosophy, politics and society.

Clément Marot and Religion Dick Wursten, 2010-05-20. Famous mainly for his chansons and epigrams, the French poet Clément Marot (1496-1544) also supplied the texts for the Huguenot Psalter. Did he only paraphrase the Psalms to do Marguerite de Navarre, the leading lady of reform-oriented France, a favour, or was there more to it? This book offers a new approach to this question, which has got stuck in a yes/no discussion. A breakthrough is forced by the author's focussing on the Psalm paraphrases themselves, which until now have never actually been included in Marot research. Analysed from a multidisciplinary perspective, the successive versions of these paraphrases reveal that Marot was interested in reaching a consistent literary and historically reliable versification of the Psalms, thus implicitly questioning the traditional christological exegesis. The author's perusal of Jewish exegetical insights, Kimhi Ibn Ezra in Martin Bucer's Commentary, shows where Marot acquired a satisfactory hermeneutical framework.

Coram Deo Hallvard Hagelia, 2001. This is a semantic investigation of spirituality in ancient Israel, as mirrored in the Book of Isaiah. Particular attention is given to the concept of faith in Yahweh. There are two main approaches. Firstly, verbs describing man's relation to Yahweh are studied according to the semantic fields of Attention, Emotion, Motion, religious Acting and Consummation. Secondly, divine epithets used for confessions to Yahweh are studied according to their semantic fields: Divine Terms, Ethical Terms, Creation Terms, Royal Terms, Military Terms, Anthropological Terms and Family Terms. Both the verbs and the divine epithets are studied in relation to their semantic fields and in their context, followed throughout the whole Book of Isaiah and summarised according to the main units of as well as the complete Book of Isaiah. The intention is to find how the vocabulary of the Book of Isaiah reflects the spiritual life of ancient Israel in the 8th and 6th century BC and later.
