A BIRD LOVER'S LIFE LIST & JOURNAL

Whether bird-watching is a new hobby or a lifelong passion, most bird-watchers keep a "life list"—a continuing record of their bird sightings and observations. For some, this list consists of simple check marks in the margins of a field guide, but many wish to keep their list in book form. The book then becomes a treasured record of their bird-watching career. A Bird Lover's Life List & Journal is the ideal medium for such a record. It is thorough and authoritative in content, based on the checklist of the American Ornithologists' Union (with additions). Moreover, it is richly illustrated with color Audubon prints and presented in a high-quality hardcover binding—to be used and enjoyed for many years.

Over 700 species of North American birds (including those in Mexico) are listed herein, with each entry giving the common and Latin names for the species. There is plentiful space for recording the habitat, time, location, and weather—as well as special comments about the bird's behavior, or unusual aspects of the sighting. Following the entries there is room for notes (or for additional sightings outside North America) and an index of common names. The most up-to-date information on the endangered or threatened status of the various species is also incorporated for reference.

The fifty color prints by John James Audubon featured here are among the finest in the holdings of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Their timeless beauty makes A Bird Lover's Life List & Journal truly distinctive.
