BOOK JACKET Ancient Buddhist Scrolls from Gandhāra Richard Salomon, 1999 As the Dead Sea scrolls have changed our understanding of Judaism and early Christianity so a set of twenty nine scrolls recently acquired by the British Library promise to provide a window into a crucial phase of the history of Buddhism in India The fragmentary birch bark scrolls which were found inside one of a set of inscribed clay pots are written in the Gandhari Prakrit language and in Kharosthi script Dating from around the beginning of the Christian era the scrolls are probably the oldest Buddhist manuscripts ever discovered The manuscripts and pots come from a region known in ancient times as Gandhara corresponding to modern northern Pakistan and eastern Afghanistan At the peak of its influence Gandhara was the capital of a series of wealthy and powerful dynasties and became one of the world's most important centers of Buddhism and the gateway through which Buddhism was transmitted from India to China and other parts of Asia Gandhara was also a principal point of contact between India and the Western world Despite abundant archeological evidence of Gandhara's thriving culture until now there has been virtually no documentary evidence of its literary and religious canon This volume introduces a groundbreaking project to decipher and interpret the Gandhara texts It provides a detailed description of the manuscripts and a survey of their contents along with a preliminary evaluation of their significance Also included are representative samples of texts and translations This discovery sheds new light on the regional character of early Indian Buddhist traditions the process of the formation of standardized written canons and the transmission of Buddhism into central and east Asia Ancient Buddhist Scrolls from Gandhara will appeal to a broad audience with interests in Buddhism comparative religion and Asian languages For more information go to the Early Buddhist Manuscript Project web site at <http://www.ebmp.org>

Buddhism and Gandhara Himanshu Prabha Ray, 2017-12-01 Gandhara is a name central to Buddhist heritage and iconography It is the ancient name of a region in present day Pakistan bounded on the west by the Hindu Kush mountain range and to the north by the foothills of the Himalayas Gandhara is also the term given to this region's sculptural and architectural features between the first and sixth centuries CE This book re-examines the archaeological material excavated in the region in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries and traces the

A Gandhari Version of the Rhinoceros Sutra Richard Salomon, 2014-11-01 Prominent in several Buddhist traditions the Rhinoceros Sutra espouses the virtues of solitude explaining the dangers of attachments prescribing a solitary spiritual life and discussing the nature of friends and friendship British Library Fragment 5B is the remnant of a scroll that originally contained a complete text of the Rhinoceros Sutra A Gandhari Version of the Rhinoceros Sutra examines in detail the literary and textual background of the sutra describes the condition of the scroll and its reconstruction analyzes the text comparing it with other extant versions and presents a literal English translation Although the original provenance of the British Library's Kharosthi scrolls is uncertain there are strong indications that they came from Hadda in the Jalalabad Plain of eastern Afghanistan just west of the Khyber Pass The scrolls were most likely written during the reign of the Saka rulers in the early first century A D making them in all probability the oldest Buddhist texts ever found as well as the earliest surviving manuscripts in any Indic language The discovery of the British Library scrolls has brought to light a previously unknown realm of Buddhist literature and scholarship and revealed that Gandhari was one of the major literary languages of Indian Buddhism For more information go to the Early Buddhist Manuscript Project web site at <http://www.ebmp.org>

Two Gāndhārī Manuscripts of the Songs of Lake Anavatapta (Anavatapta-gāthā) Richard Salomon, 2008 This fifth volume in the Gandharan Buddhist Texts series GBT presents two fragmentary manuscripts of the poem Songs of Lake Anavatapta Previously known from versions in Sanskrit Pali Tibetan and Chinese the two recently discovered Gandhari language versions confirm the poem's popularity in the ancient Buddhist world The Songs of Lake Anavatapta consists of a series of narrations by the Buddha's foremost disciples and finally by the Buddha himself in which each reveals his own complex karmic history over many past lives and explains how as a result of good deeds he has come to be an enlightened disciple of the Buddha An important theme is the complexity of karma whereby not only the enlightened beings but even the Buddha himself suffer the effects of remnants of bad karma from evil deeds long ago For more information go to the Early Buddhist Manuscript Project web site at <http://www.ebmp.org> thinkers Languages, scripts, and Chinese texts in East Asia Peter Francis Kornicki, 2018-01-19 Chinese Writing and the Rise of the Vernacular in East Asia is a wide ranging study of vernacularization in East Asia not only China Japan Korea and Vietnam but also societies that no longer exist such as the Tangut and Khitan empires Peter Kornicki takes the reader from the early centuries of the common era when the Chinese script was the only form of writing and Chinese Buddhist Confucian and medical texts spread throughout East Asia through the centuries when vernacular scripts evolved right up to the end of the nineteenth century when nationalism created new roles for vernacular languages and vernacular scripts Through an examination of oral approaches to Chinese texts it shows how highly valued Chinese texts came to be read through the prism of the vernaculars and ultimately to be translated This long process has some parallels with vernacularization in Europe but a crucial difference is that literary Chinese was unlike Latin not a spoken language As a consequence people who spoke different East Asian vernaculars had no means of communicating in speech but they could communicate silently by means of written conversation in literary Chinese a further consequence is that within each society Chinese texts assumed vernacular garb in classes and lectures Chinese texts were read and declaimed in the vernaculars What happened in the nineteenth century and why are there still so many different scripts in East Asia How and why were Chinese texts dethroned and what replaced them These are some of the questions addressed in Chinese Writing and the Rise of the Vernacular in East Asia
