Placidi,Liliana Dell'Osso,Giuseppe Nistico,Hagop S. Akiskal,2012-12-06 Current evidence indicates that over two thirds of mood disorders pursue a recurrent or chronic course Yet much of the progress recorded in the field of mood disorders and their treatment has been in research into the acute phase of the illness Hence there is a need for a volume that specifically addresses the special clinical problems encountered inthe recurrent forms of these disorders The various chapters of this book embrace a wide range of topics including etiology course and long term treatment integrative reviews results of recent investigations and clinical reports In this respect the contributions reflect currentconcepts research and clinical practice We have endeavored to build a bridge between neurobiology and psychology and have covered both the psychotherapeutic and the psychopharmacologic aspects of mood disorders Therapy of Feto-Placental Insufficiency B. Salvadori,2012-12-06 The progress in biological sciences and its applications in obstetrics in the last twenty years have formed the base for feto placental semeiotics In this way it has been possible to diagnose placental insufficiency even in patients whose clinical conditions gave all the indications of a perfectly normal feto placental condition On the other hand observations have shown that in certain conditions some deficiencies can im prove until normality is reached again On the basis of the above one feels justified to talk about the therapy of feto placental insufficiency Until now this therapy has been aimed at the obstetrical pathology of the mother Our aim is to illustrate the various steps which should be taken to execute an efficient therapy of the conditions relating to the pathology of the fetus realizing full well that fetal pharmacology is only now being taken into consideration The various steps to be taken the length of therapy and all the other correlated factors are still the object of individual ex periences and we are fortunate to have amongst us researchers in this field who have accepted our invitation and can supply us with their personal experiences which can also be compared The first international symposium on the therapy of feto placental insufficiency has been organized in conjunction with the Samil Pabyrn Foundation whom I would lik to thank and especially so its president Mrs INGE SAXON MILLS US and World Medical Care Armand A. Lefemine MD,2012-08-21 An in depth look at medical care around the world country by country with special emphasis on the players and the organization of health care in this country us and emphasis on the future as well as current problems It discusses the financial as well as the potenti al professional problems associated with a very complicated mixture of a socialized system medicare and medicaid and a for profit insurance system that are costing the country twice per capita than any other country in the world The book also reviews possible solutions and models for universal care that have been successfully applied in other countries such as Canada and the United Kingdom
