Billy Watsons Croker Sack:

Billy Watson's Croker Sack Franklin Burroughs, 1998-02-01 In South Carolina a croker sack is any big cloth sack When opened it sometimes reveals more than expected as do these deceptively simple narratives about fishing trips flora and fauna and memories of the past Observing a snapping turtle recounting the old age and death of a hunting dog or talking with neighbors who shot a moose and hung it in their garage Franklin Burroughs reflects on how human and natural histories interconnect His writing is clear and still as a pond and his distinctive and evocative voice resonates through the details and wildlife to embracing Maine's rich natural landscape and they take a philosophical look at the state of being in Maine. Among the authors included are Carolyn Chute, Richard Ford, Bill Roorbach, Richard Russo, and Monica Wood. Cultural Values in the Southern Sporting Narrative Jacob F. Rivers, 2002. This work covers classic southern fiction along with lesser known works with an eye to the ways that southern writers such as William Elliot, William Gilmore Simms, and William Faulkner depict hunting and outdoorsmanship. The essays in Franklin Burroughs' new collection, many of which were published in Down East magazine as part of Burroughs' Room With a View column, cast a wide net over the land, water, and wildlife of his adopted state, Maine. Moving casually between current events, historic conservation, natural observation, and solid research, these essays give Burroughs' unique perspective to a broad range of Maine's natural world. The River Home Franklin Burroughs, 1998-02-01. Burroughs chronicles a canoe voyage through the Carolinas, visiting his ancestral homeland and the people who inhabit the banks of the Waccamaw River. The Land's Wild Music Mark Tredinnick, 2011-04-14. The Land's Wild Music explores the home terrains and the writing of four great American writers of place: Barry Lopez, Peter Matthiessen, Terry Tempest Williams, and James Galvin. In their work and its relationship with their home places, Tredinnick, an Australian writer, searches for answers to such questions such as whether it's possible for a writer to make an authentic witness of a place, how one captures the landscape as it truly is, and how one joins the place in witness so that its lyric becomes one's own and enters into one's own work. He asks what it might mean to enact an ecological imagination of the world and whether it might be possible to see the work and the writer as part of the place itself. The work is a meditation on the nature of landscape and its power to shape the lives and syntax of men and women. It is animated by the author's encounters with Lopez, Matthiessen, Williams, and Galvin by critical readings of their work and by the author's engagement with the landscapes that have shaped these writers and their writing: the Cascades, Long Island, the Colorado Plateau, and the high prairies of the Rocky Mountains. Tredinnick seeks the spring of nature, writing deep in the nature of a place itself, carried in a writer's wild self inside and resonated over and over again at the desk until it is a work in which the place itself sings.

Dogfish Memory: Sailing in Search of Old Maine: A Memoir Joseph A. Dane, 2011-06-06. An exquisite memoir about lost love and the sustaining grace of the sea. T. C. Boyle: The Maine dogfish are gone, fished to the brink of extinction. Gone too is Linda Jane, and with her the love and the subjunctive Maine that they might have shared. And what of that fabled Old Maine? Is it gone for good? Dogfish Memory is the story of the search for an authentic Maine, a Maine of the past, whether historical or simply imagined, and a Maine of the present, one experienced by both permanent residents and seasonal ones, summerfolk. Joseph Dane is both. He has worked on commercial fishing boats as a local, and he has sailed the coast for years like those who are from away. Dogfish Memory tells the story of how his often conflicting Maines are intertwined. Authentic Maine is elusive, stories and even photographs of a past Maine often contradict the memories of those who have lived through the changes they record Dogfish Memory is thus the story of loss the loss of a Maine recalled and imagined and the loss of the love with which Maine is irrevocably associated Fearless Confessions Sue William Silverman, 2010-01-25 Everyone has a story to tell Fearless Confessions is a guidebook for people who want to take possession of their lives by putting their experiences down on paper or in a Web site or e book Enhanced with illustrative examples from many different writers as well as writing exercises this guide helps writers navigate a range of issues from craft to ethics to marketing and will be useful to both beginners and more accomplished writers The rise of interest in memoir recognizes the power of the genre to move and affect not just individual readers but society at large Sue William Silverman covers traditional writing topics such as metaphor theme plot and voice and also includes chapters on trusting memory and cultivating the courage to tell one's truth in the face of forces from family members to the media who would prefer that people with inconvenient pasts and views remain silent Silverman an award winning memoirist draws upon her own personal and professional experience to provide an essential resource for transforming life into words that matter Fearless Confessions is an atlas that contains maps to the remarkable places in each person's life that have yet to be explored
