Using Design Research and History to Tackle a Fundamental Problem with School Algebra Sinan Kanbir, M. A. (Ken) Clements, Nerida F. Ellerton, 2017-10-28 In this well illustrated book the authors Sinan Kanbir Ken Clements and Nerida Ellerton tackle a persistent and universal problem in school mathematics why do so many middle school and secondary school students find it difficult to learn algebra well. What makes the book important are the unique features which comprise the design research approach that the authors adopted in seeking a solution to the problem. The first unique feature is that the authors offer an overview of the history of school algebra. Despite the fact that algebra has been an important component of secondary school mathematics for more than three centuries, there has never been a comprehensive historical analysis of factors influencing the teaching and learning of that component. The authors identify through historical analysis six purposes of school algebra: a) algebra as a body of knowledge essential to higher mathematical and scientific studies; b) algebra as generalized arithmetic; c) algebra as a prerequisite for entry to higher studies; d) algebra as offering a language and set of procedures for modeling real life problems; e) algebra as an aid to describing structural properties in elementary mathematics; and f) algebra as a study of variables. They also raise the question whether school algebra represents a unidimensional trait.

Kanbir Clements and Ellerton offer an unusual hybrid theoretical framework for their intervention study by which seventh grade students significantly improved their elementary algebra knowledge and skills. Their theoretical frame combined Charles Sanders Peirce's triadic signifier-interpretant-signified theory, which is in the realm of semiotics, with Johann Friedrich Herbart's theory of apperception and Ken Clements and Gina Del Campo's theory relating to the need to expand modes of communications in mathematics classrooms so that students engage in receptive and expressive modes. Practicing classroom teachers formed part of the research team. This book appears in Springer's series on the History of Mathematics Education. Not only does it include an important analysis of the history of school algebra, but it also adopts a theoretical frame which relies more on theories from the past than on contemporary theories in the field of mathematics education. The results of the well designed classroom intervention are sufficiently impressive that the study might have created and illuminated a pathway for future researchers to take.

Quality Instruction and Intervention for Elementary Educators Brittany L. Hott, Pamela Williamson, 2024-10-02

Effective teaching starts with quality instruction that most students respond well to. However, about 35% of students will require specialized and more intensive instruction to meet academic and behavioral standards. Both students with exceptionalities who are eligible to receive special education and related services and students who are placed at risk due to circumstance require, deserve, and are legally entitled to quality intervention. Quality Instruction and Intervention for Elementary Educators offers an accessible resource for educators interested in evidence-based strategies to ensure all students have access to an excellent education. Two dedicated chapters authored by leading content and strategy experts in the field are devoted to content areas. The first chapter focuses on quality instruction with academic subject matter specialists as lead authors, with interventionists supporting. The second chapter focuses on effective intervention with the interventionists taking the lead author roles and academic subject matter specialists supporting. Between the two chapters is a dialogue between the teams of authors bridging instruction and intervention. This unique approach bridges the gap between quality instruction and effective intervention, an often overlooked component of teacher education The book also includes dedicated chapters on the integration of instructional technology and executive functioning After reading the book educators will be able to describe the components of effective instruction and intervention in each of the content areas access empirically validated materials and locate resources for continued learning Glencoe Mathematics ,2001 Supporting Education Karen Kearns,2019-07-02 The new edition of Supporting Education is the perfect handbook for anyone who works with qualified teachers in a role supporting the education and development of school children Supporting Education 3e is written to support the Certificate III in Education Support qualification from the streamlined CHC Community Services Training Package It provides Education Support Workers with an overview of child development and how children learn as well an introduction to the key learning areas The text also links to new online support resources and information to help with teaching and class prep time Premium online teaching and learning tools are available on the MindTap platform Learn more about the online tools cengage.com/au/learning/solutions Current Index to Journals in Education ,1995 Resources in Education ,1997 Algebra 1 Chapter 9 Resource Masters McGraw-Hill Staff,2002-04 Research in Education ,1970 Youth, Training and the Training State Michael Neary,2016-07-27 This work uncovers the real history of modern youth providing an explanation of its predicament that goes beyond the mainstream accounts as perpetrated by the sociology of youth Tracing the development of training of young workers from 1814 the book reveals for the first time the creation by post war legislation of the modern category of youth The book concludes that with the prevailing conditions of employment there is no longer any future for youth as youth The recent history of youth is an attempt to recompose a sustainable existence for itself and society Civic Education and Competences for Engaging Citizens in Democracies Murray Print,Dirk Lange,2013-02-11 Civic Education and Competences for Engaging Citizens in Democracies Murray Print University of Sydney and Dirk Lange Leibniz University of Hannover What competences do young citizens need to be considered as active and engaged in the context of a modern Europe In 2011 an invited research symposium of leading civic and political educators social scientists and educational administrators from Europe met in Hannover Germany to consider this key concern facing Europe today In examining the above question the symposium addressed two significant issues 1 Identify key competencies required for active citizenship of young people in Europe of the future 2 Translate those competencies to school based activities in the form of curricular and pedagogical strategies The group addressed these questions through discussion in the symposium and through previously prepared papers Subsequently the group participated in a modified Delphi Technique to identify the key competences and the final competences are presented in this book The chapters of this book represent the contribution of the participants before during and after the symposium with opportunities for review and reflection Murray Print and Dirk Lange are professors from the University of Sydney and Leibniz University of Hannover respectively and are national leaders in civics and citizenship education in their respective countries They have brought together a group of leading European civic and citizenship educators from different

Communication and Power in the Global Era Marwan M. Kraidy, 2012-11-27 This book revisits how we think about communication and power in the global era. It takes stock of the last fifty years of scholarship, maps key patterns and concepts, and sets an agenda for theory and research. The book addresses such questions as: How are national and cultural identities re-fashioned and expressed in the global era? How can we best understand the emergence of multiple and sometimes antagonistic modernities worldwide? How are political struggles fought and communicated on the local-national-global nexus? How do we integrate emerging media environments in global communication studies? Bringing together essays from a range of internationally renowned scholars, this book will be useful to undergraduate and postgraduate students on Media and Communication Studies courses, particularly those studying globalisation and global media.
