

Unit 1 Social networks

Lesson C, Ex. 3A, 3B, and 3C (p. 15)

CD1, Tracks 11-13 (Highlighted text appears only on Track 12.)

1.

Man You know, my girlfriend and I aren't getting along very well these days. We're always arguing.

Woman But you really like her, right?

Man Yeah. But there's no point staying together, really. We just have very different views on everything. Like we'll talk about politics and religion, and we just end up arguing. She's so touchy.

Woman So you don't agree on anything?

Man No, not really. Well, we both agree that we don't get along! Maybe we should just stop talking about important stuff ...

2.

Man You know, I think I'm going to unfriend someone on my social network account. There's this one girl who's always uploading stupid photos. I mean, she'll do it like ten times a day. It drives me crazy.

Woman And does she post obnoxious comments, too?

Man Oh, yeah. She's always saying rude things about me. She's just weird. Maybe I should text her and ask her to stop ... Why didn't I think of that before?

3.

Woman Gosh, don't you hate it when people talk about you behind your back?

Man Oh, yeah. I know someone who's constantly doing that. He's a real pain.

Woman Yeah, it's just not nice. One of my friends in class does it. She'll like tell everyone I'm way too talkative and stuff. And then she tells me how much she likes hanging out with me.

Man But why does she do that?

Woman I don't know. I guess I should just ignore her.

4.

Woman 1 I have one friend—we were constantly calling each other and everything. But I hardly ever hear from her anymore. I mean, she'll text me every once in a while.

Woman 2 Huh. So, did you have a fight or something?

Woman 1 No. I think she found some new friends, and she tends to hang out with them now.

Woman 2 So, she just dropped you?

Woman 1 Yeah. But I really like her. Maybe I should call her and say I miss her? Maybe she's just busy ...

Lesson D, Ex. 3B and 3C (p. 17)

CD1, Tracks 14 & 15

Rosa Employers basically want people who will fit in. After all, what you do online shows your true personality.

Daniel But your online profile is private information.

Rosa So you think it's private? On the contrary. If I can see your profile by looking online, it's not private—it's public. It tells me things that I won't see in an interview.

Daniel Yes, but ... but ... what you see on social networking sites is not the whole person. Social networking sites don't tell you what people are like at work.

Rosa I know what you mean, but you need to consider the cost. Employers need to be very careful about the people they employ because it's very expensive to recruit and train new staff.

Daniel Yes, I agree, but on the other hand, as an employer, you can't own your employees 24/7. Everyone has a right to have fun in his or her free time.

Rosa True, but if I'm looking at two people for the same job, I'll probably avoid the person who's always partying.

Daniel However, just because they party a lot doesn't mean people are bad at the job. For some jobs, you need friendly, outgoing people.

Rosa But it's not just party photos; it's blogs and postings and comments, too. For example, I don't want to hire somebody with an off-color sense of humor or someone who sounds arrogant. I want someone who will fit in and work well with other people.

Daniel Well, I can see that. On the one hand, you don't want to employ difficult people, but on the other hand, people change at work and behave in a different way with friends. So while the Internet may show you one side of a person, you really need to see what a candidate is like, in person, before you can decide.

Unit 2 The media

Lesson B, Ex. 3A and 3B (p. 23)

CD1, Tracks 20 & 21

Maggie Yeah, that seems to make sense to me. I mean, I know that kids who get into books tend to do well in school and everything. Every time somebody says that their kid just took a reading test and like did really well, they always say, "We read to him all the time." So it's not surprising that there's a link between TV and school or that it has an effect on grades.

Though on the other hand, one good thing about TV is that there's a lot of good educational stuff on it, too, like the History Channel or the Science Channel or whatever. So, um, maybe it depends on what you watch.

Howard Yeah, I mean, that's the problem with TV—the point is that when you watch TV, you're not outdoors playing and running around. What I'm saying is that it's bad for kids to sit and do nothing but watch TV.
