Deforestation and desertification. Critical development issues? Andreas Michaelis, 2014-05-21 Essay from the year 2014 in the subject Politics Topic Development Politics grade 1 5 University of Warwick language English abstract Drought and desertification threaten the livelihood of more than 1 2 billion people across 110 countries Around 2 billion people live in dry lands which occupy around 40 per cent of the earth's land surface while 90 per cent of the people who live in drylands are from DC Kingsbury et al 2012 314 Drought and desertification effect strongly the development of a country The town Baga in Nigeria was once a fisherman's village It was at the coast of the Tschad lake now it is more than 30km away from the lake The increasing desertification of the region at Tschad lake drove the city to become agriculturally centred the outcome of desertification for the local population is significant This essay argues for a strong impact of environmental problems like desertification and deforestation on the development of a country This essay wants to highlight the importance of these problems for development science The key argument of this essay is the reciprocal influence between development and environmental problems Development often generates environmental problems which in turn aggravates future development

Creeping Environmental Problems and Sustainable Development in the Aral Sea Basin Michael Glantz, 1999-05-13 Environmental degradation in the Aral Sea basin has been a touchstone for increasing public awareness of environmental issues The Aral crisis has been touted as a quiet Chernobyl and as one of the worst human made environmental catastrophes of the twentieth century This multidisciplinary 1999 book comprehensively describes the slow onset of low grade but incremental changes i.e. creeping environmental change which affected the region and its peoples Through a set of case studies it describes how the region's decision makers allowed these changes to grow into an environmental and societal nightmare It outlines many lessons to be learned for other areas undergoing detrimental creeping environmental change and provides an important example of how to approach such disasters for students and researchers of environmental studies global change political science and history

Sustainable Development in World Investment Law Marie-Claire Cordonier Segger, Markus W. Gehring, Andrew Paul

Newcombe, 2011-01-01 Sustainable development as defined by the World Commission on Environment and Development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs More specifically sustainable development is a process of change that seeks to improve the collective quality of life by focusing on economically socially and environmentally sound projects that are viable in the long term Sustainable development requires structural economic change and the foundation of that change is investment. In developing nations with low levels of domestic savings investment predictably comes from abroad in the form of foreign direct investment. A large and ever expanding number of international investment agreements are in place to govern these transactions. While these accords seek to foster development while mitigating the risk involved in these types of investments, many questions remain unresolved. This highly insightful book reflects the contributions of a variety of world renowned experts, each of which is designed to provide the reader with valuable perspective on recent developments in investment law, negotiations and jurisprudence from a sustainable development law perspective. It offers answers to pertinent questions concerning advancements in investment law including the negotiation of numerous regional and bilateral agreements as well as the increasing number of disputes resolved in the World Bank's International Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID) from different developed and developing country perspectives. It lays out future directions for new treaty negotiations and dispute settlement proceedings as well as ongoing investment promotion efforts against a background of rapidly evolving international relationships between economic environment and development law. It focuses on key issues in investment laws which have emerged as priorities in the negotiation of bilateral and regional investment agreements and have been clarified through recent decisions of the ICSID and other arbitral panel awards.

Handbook of Globalization and the Environment Khi V. Thai, Dianne Rahm, Jerrell D. Coggburn, 2017-09-25

Proponents of globalization argue that it protects the global environment from degradation and promotes worldwide sustainable economic growth while opponents argue the exact opposite. Examining the local, national and international impacts of globalization, the Handbook of Globalization and the Environment explores strategies and solutions that support healthy economic growth, protect the environment and create a more equitable world. The book sets the stage with coverage of global environmental issues and policies. It explores international sustainable development, the evolution of global warming policy, transborder air pollution, desertification, space and the global environment and human right to water. Building on this foundation, the editors discuss global environmental organizations and institutions with coverage of the UN's role in globalization, the trade-environment nexus, the emergence of NGOs and an analysis of the state of global environmental knowledge and awareness from an international and comparative perspective. Emphasizing the effects of increasingly integrated global economy on the environment and society, the book examines environmental management and accountability. It addresses green procurement, provides an overview of U.S. environmental regulation and the current range of voluntary and mandatory pollution prevention mechanisms in use, explores a two-pronged approach to establishing a sustainable procurement model and examines a collaborative community-based approach to environmental regulatory compliance. The book concludes with an analysis of controversial issues such as eco-terrorism, North-South disputes, environmental justice, the promotion of economic growth through globalization in less developed countries and the ability of scientists to communicate ideas so that policy makers can use science in decision making Grassroots Indicators for Desertification ,1996
