Harry Margalit

Architecture Of East Australia:

The Architecture of East Australia Bill MacMahon, 2001-11-29 The story of Australian architecture might be said to parallel the endeavours of Australians to adapt reconcile themselves with their home neighbours It is the story of 200 years of coming to terms with the land of adaptation insight making do Early settlers were poorly provisioned profoundly ignorant of the land richly prejudiced towards its peoples They pursued many paths over many terrains From the moist temperate region of Tasmania with heavy Palladian villas to the monsoonal north with open lightweight stilt houses the continent has induced most different regional building styles Australia Harry Margalit, 2019-11-15 This book tells the story of the architects and buildings that have defined Australia's architectural culture since the founding of the modern nation through Federation in 1901 That year marked the beginning of a search for better city forms and buildings to accommodate the changing realities of Australian life and to express an emerging distinctive and eventually confident Australian identity While Sydney and Melbourne were the settings for many of the major buildings all states and territories developed architectural traditions based on distinctive histories and climates Harry Margalit explores the flowering of these many architectural variants from the bid to create a model city in Canberra through the stylistic battles that opened a space for modernism to the idealism of postwar reconstruction and beyond to the new millennium Australia reveals a vibrant and influential culture of the built environment at its best when it matches civic idealism with the sensuality of a country of stunning light and landscapes Learning Country in Landscape Architecture David S. Jones, 2021-02-27 This book strategically focuses upon the feasibility of positioning Indigenous Knowledge Systems into tertiary built environment education and research in Australia Australian tertiary education has little engaged with Indigenous peoples and their Indigenous Knowledge Systems and the respectful translation of their Indigenous Knowledge Systems into tertiary education learning In contrast while there has been a dearth of discussion and research on this topic pertaining to the tertiary sector the secondary school sector has passionately pursued this topic There is an uneasiness by the tertiary sector to engage in this realm overwhelmed already by the imperatives of the Commonwealth's Closing the Gap initiative to advance Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander tertiary education successes and appointments of Indigenous academics As a consequence the teaching of Indigenous Knowledge Systems relevant to professional disciplines particularly landscape architecture where it is most apt is overlooked and similarly little addressed in the relevant professional institute education accreditation standards Architecture in Australia, 1963 The Fractal Dimension of Architecture Michael J. Ostwald, Josephine Vaughan, 2016-09-01 Fractal analysis is a method for measuring analysing and comparing the formal or geometric properties of complex objects In this book it is used to investigate eighty five buildings that have been designed by some of the twentieth century's most respected and celebrated architects Including designs by Le Corbusier Eileen Gray Frank Lloyd Wright Robert Venturi Frank Gehry Peter Eisenman Richard Meier and Kazuyo Sejima amongst others this book uses mathematics to analyse arguments and theories about some of the world's most famous designs Starting with 625 reconstructed architectural plans and elevations and including more than 200 specially prepared views of famous buildings this book presents the results of the largest mathematical study ever undertaken into architectural design and the largest single application of fractal analysis presented in any field The data derived from this study is used to test three overarching hypotheses about social stylistic and personal trends in design along with five celebrated arguments about twentieth century architecture Through this process the book offers a unique mathematical insight into the history and theory of design

Assembling the Centre: Architecture for Indigenous Cultures Janet McGaw, Anoma Pieris, 2014-11-13 Metropolitan Indigenous Cultural Centres have become a focal point for making Indigenous histories and contemporary cultures public in settler colonial societies over the past three decades While there are extraordinary success stories there are equally stories that cause concern award winning architecturally designed Indigenous cultural centres that have been abandoned centres that serve the interests of tourists but fail to nourish the cultural interests of Indigenous stakeholders and places for vibrant community gathering that fail to garner the economic and political support to remain viable Indigenous cultural centres are rarely static They are places of emergence assembled and re-assembled along a range of vectors that usually lie beyond the gaze of architecture How might the traditional concerns of architecture site space form function materialities tectonics be reconfigured to express the complex and varied social identities of contemporary Indigenous peoples in colonised nations This book documents a range of Indigenous Cultural Centres across the globe and the processes that led to their development It explores the possibilities for the social and political project of the Cultural Centre that architecture both inhibits and affords Whose idea of architecture counts when designing Indigenous Cultural Centres How does architectural history and contemporary practice territorialise spaces of Indigenous occupation What is architecture for Indigenous cultures and how is it recognised This ambitious and provocative study pursues a new architecture for colonised Indigenous cultures that takes the politics of recognition to its heart It advocates an ethics of mutual engagement as a crucial condition for architectural projects that design across cultural difference The book's structure method and arguments are dialogically assembled around narratives told by Indigenous people of their pursuit of public recognition spatial justice and architectural presence in settler dominated societies Possibilities for decolonising architecture emerge through these accounts

APAIS 1991: Australian public affairs information service , Between Duty and Design John J. Taylor, 2014 Annotation The architectural work of Joseph John Talbot Hobbs is impossible to overlook in Perth and Western Australia It dominates public spaces as well as domestic and business streetscapes A strong sense of duty determined that the diminutive fifty year old architect soldier J J Talbot Hobbs would in 1914 voyage to the First World War where he survived the horrors of Gallipoli and the Western Front Hobbs powerful organisational skills positioned him as Australia s highest ranking soldier in Europe after the Great War Organiser of Australian war memorials in France and Belgium his stellar designs both there and throughout Western Australia are now largely forgotten Who was J J Talbot Hobbs that he was considered to be of such importance at the time of his death that a memorial was built in one of the most prominent places in the state s capital city of Perth

Between Duty and Design is a meticulous biography of the man soldier and architect highlighting his place as a citizen of national importance Urban Water Systems & Floods II S. Hernández,S. Mambretti,D. Proverbs,J. Puertas,2018-08-21

Developing an improved understanding of emerging flood risk management and urban water management was the goal set for research presented at the 6th International Conference on Flood and Urban Water Management held in A Coru a Spain The published papers look to solve various challenges in this field by drawing on the expertise of numerous disciplines and considering a range of responses Flooding is a global phenomenon that claims numerous lives worldwide each year When flooding occurs in urban areas it can cause substantial damage to property as well as threaten human life In addition many more people must endure the homelessness upset and disruption that are left in the wake of floods The increased frequency of flooding in the last few years coupled with climate change predictions and urban development suggest that these impacts are set to worsen in the future How we respond and importantly adapt to these challenges is key to developing our long term resilience at the property community and city scale Apart from the physical damage to buildings contents and loss of life which are the most obvious impacts of floods upon households other more indirect losses are often overlooked These indirect and intangible impacts are generally associated with disruption to normal life as well as long term health issues including community displacements and stress related illnesses Flooding represents a major barrier to the alleviation of poverty in many parts of the developing world where vulnerable communities are often exposed to sudden and life threatening events As our cities continue to expand their urban infrastructures need to be re evaluated and adapted to new requirements related to the increase in population and the growing areas under urbanization The papers contained in this book consider these problems and deals with two main urban water topics water supply systems and urban drainage Living Architecture Graeme Hopkins,Christine Goodwin,2011-05-16 Extensively illustrated with photographs and drawings Living Architecture highlights the most exciting green roof and living wall projects in Australia and New Zealand within an international context Cities around the world are becoming denser with greater built form resulting in more hard surfaces and less green space leaving little room for vegetation or habitat One way of creating more natural environments within cities is to incorporate green roofs and walls in new buildings or to retrofit them in existing structures This practice has long been established in Europe and elsewhere and now Australia and New Zealand have begun to embrace it The installation of green roofs and walls has many benefits including the management of stormwater and improved water quality by retaining and filtering rainwater through the plants soil and root uptake zone reducing the urban heat island effect in cities increasing real estate values around green roofs and reducing energy consumption within the interior space by shading insulation and reducing noise level from outside and providing biodiversity opportunities via a vertical link between the roof and the ground This book will appeal to a wide range of readers from students and practitioners of architecture landscape architecture urban planning and ecology through to members of the community interested in how they can more effectively use the rooftops and walls of their homes or workplaces to increase green open space in the urban environment

Contested Architectural Pasts and Futures of a Regional City, Geelong, Australia Mirjana Lozanovska, Ursula de Jong, 2024-10-03 This collection of essays highlights current debates for cities undergoing urban renewal focussing on regional cities as places that lead change Like many regional cities Geelong is grappling with the legacy of its industrial architectural heritage and identity This in depth study of the city of Geelong examines theories and realities from the speculative to the mundane critical to change pre emptied by deindustrialisation While this book argues that architecture and the built environment are key to urban renewal an intersectional perspective on Geelong as a place raises contested pasts and territories This brings attention to the dispossession of First Nations people by British colonisers as well as the exploitation of immigrant communities in industrial production Informed by positions on design futures decolonising and cultural urbanisms adaptive re use and the post industrial city the chapters in this book expand an interdisciplinary field relevant to scholars and practitioners in heritage and conservation urban design community engagement and place making more generally
