Contrast And Commonality Between English And German In System And Text:

Cross-Linguistic Variation in System and Text Elke Teich, 2012-02-13 The intuition that translations are somehow different from texts that are not translations has been around for many years but most of the common linguistic frameworks are not comprehensive enough to account for the wealth and complexity of linguistic phenomena that make a translation a special kind of text The present book provides a novel methodology for investigating the specific linguistic properties of translations As this methodology is both corpus based and driven by a functional theory of language it is powerful enough to account for the multi dimensional nature of cross linguistic variation in translations and cross linguistically comparable texts

Language Typology Alice Caffarel, J. R. Martin, Christian M. I. M. Matthiessen, 2004 This book is intended as a systemic functional contribution to language typology both for those who would like to understand and describe particular languages against the background of generalizations about a wide range of languages and also for those who would like to develop typological accounts that are based on and embody descriptions of the systems of particular languages rather than isolated constructions The book is a unique contribution in at least two respects On the one hand it is the first book based on systemic functional theory that is specifically concerned with language typology On the other hand the book combines the particular with the general in the description of languages it presents comparable sketches of particular languages while at the same time identifying generalizations based on the languages described here as well as on other languages The volume explores eight languages covering seven language families French German Pitjantjatjara Tagalog Telugu Vietnamese Chinese and Japanese

Conjunctive Markers of Contrast in English and French Maïté Dupont, 2021-06-15 Situated at the interface between corpus linguistics and Systemic Functional Linguistics this volume focuses on conjunctive markers expressing contrast in English and French The frequency and placement patterns of the markers are analysed using large corpora of texts from two written registers newspaper editorials and research articles The corpus study revisits the long standing but largely unsubstantiated claim that French requires more explicit markers of cohesive conjunction than English and shows that the opposite is in fact the case Novel insights into the placement preferences of English and French conjunctive markers are provided by a new approach to theme and rheme that attaches more importance to the rheme than previous studies The study demonstrates the significant benefits of a combined corpus and Systemic Functional Linguistics approach to the cross linguistic analysis of cohesion

Recent Advances in Corpus Linguistics Lieven Vandelandotte, Kristin Davidse, Caroline Gentens, Ditte Kimp, 2014-08-15 This book is a selection of studies presented at the 33rd International Conference of the International Computer Archive of Modern and Medieval English ICAME hosted by the University of Leuven 30 May 3 June 2012 The strictly refereed and extensively revised contributions collected here represent recent advances in corpus linguistics both in the development of specialist corpora and in ways of exploiting them for specific purposes The first part focuses on Corpus development and corpus interrogation and features papers on the compilation of new highly specialized corpora which aim to fill gaps in historical databases and on new ways of extracting relevant patterns automatically from computerized datasets The second part devoted to Specialist corpora presents detailed descriptive studies on grammatical patterns in World Englishes on neology and using a contrastive approach on prepositions and cohesive conjunctions The third and final part on Second language acquisition groups together studies situated at the intersection of corpus linguistics and educational linguistics and dealing with markers of relevance and lesser relevance in lectures deceptive cognates the automatic annotation of native and non native uses of demonstrative this and that and measuring learners progress in speech and in writing Each contribution in its own way reports on novel ways of getting mileage out of specialist corpora and collectively the contributions attest to the rude health of computerized corpus linguistic studies GECCo - German-English Contrasts in Cohesion Kerstin Kunz, Ekaterina Lapshinova-Koltunski, José Manuel Martínez Martínez, Katrin Menzel, Erich Steiner, 2021-10-25 In contrastive linguistics of English and German there is a tradition of accounting for contrasts with respect to grammar and to a lesser extent for lexis and phonetics Moving on to discourse and text there is a sizeable body of literature on cohesive patterns in English and German respectively but very little in terms of a comparison The latter though is of particular interest for language learners translators and of course linguists and researchers in language technology This book attempts to close this gap based on a number of years of corpus based study into variation and cohesion in the two languages While there is an overall focus on language contrasts it also investigates variation between different registers language internally and between written and spoken mode in particular For each of the five major types of cohesion co reference substitution ellipsis conjunctive relations and lexical cohesion overviews are given of contrasts in the system and of contrastive frequencies in texts Results and methods presented in this book are thus relevant for language teaching translation language technology and corpus based work on English and German generally Key Themes and New Directions in Systemic Functional Translation Studies Bo Wang, Yuanyi Ma, 2022-04-19 This collection features eight interviews with seven senior scholars whose seminal works involve the application of Systemic Functional Linguistics SFL to translation studies have advanced Systemic Functional Translation Studies SFTS as a research agenda in its own right with critical reflections and insights into future directions The book introduces SFTS as a research field tracing its development and situating the contributions of the scholars interviewed within this tradition An international group of researchers working across a diverse range of topics within SFTS are interviewed including Christian M I M Matthiessen Erich Steiner J R Martin Juliane House Jeremy Munday Adriana Pagano and Akila Sellami Baklouti Taken together the collection offers a comprehensive account of theoretical and methodological developments in SFTS with critical overviews of these scholars body of work within the research area and reflections on the emerging research that pushes SFTS scholarship into new frontiers This volume will be of particular interest to scholars in translation studies and Systemic Functional Linguistics as well as those interested in innovations in linguistic theory Exploring Translation and Multilingual Text Production

Erich Steiner, Colin Yallop, 2013-02-06 The series serves to propagate investigations into language usage especially with respect to computational support This includes all forms of text handling activity not only interlingual translations but also conversions carried out in response to different communicative tasks Among the major topics are problems of text transfer and the interplay between human and machine activities Educating for Advanced Foreign Language Capacities

Heidi Byrnes, Heather D. Weger, Katherine A. Sprang, 2006-10-06 Advanced language learning has only recently begun to capture the interest and attention of applied linguists and professionals in language education in the United States In this breakthrough volume experts in the field lay the groundwork for approaching the increasingly important role of advanced language learning in the larger context of multilingual societies globalization and security This volume presents both general and theoretical insights and language specific considerations in college classrooms spanning a range of languages from the commonly taught languages of English French and German to the less commonly taught Farsi Korean Norwegian and Russian Among theoretical frameworks likely to be conducive to imagining and fostering instructed advancedness in a second language this volume highlights a cognitive semantic approach The theoretical and data based findings make clear that advanced learners in particular are characterized by the capacity to make situated choices from across the entire language system from vocabulary and grammar to discourse features which suggests the need for a text oriented meaning driven approach to language teaching learning and research This volume also considers whether and how information structuring in second language composition reveals first language preferences of grammaticized concepts Other topics include curricular and instructional approaches to narrativity vocabulary expansion the demands on instructed programs for efficiency and effectiveness in order to assure advanced levels and learners ability to function in professional contexts with their diverse oral and written genre requirements Finally the volume probes the role and nature of assessment as a measurement tool for both researching and assessing advanced language learning and as an essential component of improving programs Connectivity in Grammar and Discourse Jochen Rehbein, Christiane Hohenstein, Lukas

Pietsch, 2007-06-05 In this collection of carefully selected papers connectivity is looked at from the vantage points of language contact language change language acquisition multilingual communication and related domains based on various European and Non European languages From typological and multilingual perspectives the focus of investigation is on the grammatical architecture of a number of linguistic devices that interconnect units of text and discourse The volume is organized along central concepts A general section deals with connectivity in language change and language acquisition subdivisions are devoted to pronouns topics and subjects the role of finiteness in text and discourse coordination and subordination and particles adverbials and constructions The editors preface introduces connectivity as an object of linguistic research Education in Germany David Phillips, 2013-04-15 The German education and training system has been the subject of considerable attention from other nations and has often been used as a model David Phillips book brings together articles from some of the best known names in the field including Mitter Glowka Hearnden Fuhr Robinsohn and Prais and wagner The book is organised into four sections Section one examines the historical inheritance of the present education system Section two covers standards and assessments and section three discusses vocational education and training and area of the German education system which has received much admiration Finally and crucially section four addresses questions about the future of the current system in a unified Germany

The Phonetics and Phonology of Contrast Margaret E. L. Renwick, 2014-09-12 This book proposes that phonological contrast in particular the robustness of a phonemic contrast does not depend solely on the presence of minimal pairs but is instead affected by a set of phonetic usage based and systemic factors This perspective opens phonology to a more direct interpretation through phonetic analysis undertaken in a series of case studies on the Romanian vowel system Both the synchronic phonetics and morpho phonological alternations are studied to understand the forces that have historically shaped and now maintain the phonemic system of Romanian A corpus study of phoneme type frequency in Romanian reveals marginal contrasts among vowels in which a sharp distinction between allophones and phonemes fails to capture relationships among sounds An investigation of Romanian provides insight into the historical roots of marginal contrast and a large acoustic study of Romanian vowels and diphthongs is a backdrop for evaluating the phonetic and perceptual realization of marginal contrast The results provide impetus for a model in which phonology phonetics morphology and perception interact in a multidimensional way

Comparative Stylistics of French and English Jean-Paul Vinay, Jean Darbelnet, 1995 The Stylistique comparée du français et de l'anglais has become a standard text in the French speaking world for the study of comparative stylistics and the training of translators This updated first English edition makes Vinay Darbelnet's classic methodology of translation available to a wider readership The translation oriented contrastive grammatical and stylistic analyses of the two languages are extensively exemplified by expressions phrases and
