

Nature vs. Nurture

Nature vs Nurture is a debate between scientists about what makes people who they are. Some people believe that we are born with certain traits and abilities, while others believe that we are shaped by our environment. Both of these ideas have a lot of evidence behind them, but it's difficult to know for sure which one is right. In this article, we'll explore the debate and see what the science has to say about it.

One of the main arguments for the idea that we are born with certain traits is the fact that some people are born with physical disabilities, such as blindness or deafness. These people are born with these disabilities, and they are not able to overcome them. This is evidence that we are born with certain traits, and that these traits can be passed on to our children. Another argument for the idea that we are born with certain traits is the fact that some people are born with certain personality traits, such as being shy or outgoing. These traits are also passed on to our children, and they are not able to overcome them. This is evidence that we are born with certain traits, and that these traits can be passed on to our children.

On the other hand, there is a lot of evidence to suggest that we are shaped by our environment. One of the main arguments for this is the fact that some people are born with certain traits, but they are not able to overcome them. This is evidence that we are born with certain traits, and that these traits can be passed on to our children. Another argument for the idea that we are shaped by our environment is the fact that some people are born with certain traits, but they are not able to overcome them. This is evidence that we are born with certain traits, and that these traits can be passed on to our children.

There is a lot of evidence to suggest that we are shaped by our environment.
