Architecture and Spatial Culture John Peponis, 2024-03-19 Built space supports our daily habits and our membership of communities organizations institutions or social formations Architecture and Spatial Culture argues that architecture matters because it makes the settings of our life intelligible so that we can sustain or creatively transform them As technological and social innovations allow us to overcome spatial constraints to communication cooperation and exchange so the architecture of embodied experience reflects independent cultural choices and human values The analysis of a wealth of examples from urban environments to workplaces and museums shows that built space functions pedagogically inducing us to specific ways of seeing understanding and feeling and supporting distinct patterns of cooperation and life in common Architecture and Spatial Culture is about the principles that underpin the design and inhabitation of space It also serves as an introduction to Space Syntax a descriptive theory used to model the human functions of layouts Thus it addresses architects students of architecture and all those
