

Yahweh Exile Essay

The exile was an act of divine judgment towards the nation of Israel due to their consistent unfaithfulness to the covenantal agreement with Yahweh established at Sinai and their failure to seek Yahweh as their Lord. Throughout the time of exile, Yahweh remained gracious, and faithful to his covenant people, proving it to be a time of great restoration and formation for the nation. The exile can only be seen as a turning point, for the people of God and the nation of Israel; Karen Jobes said, It is difficult to exaggerate the significance of the exile and restoration in shaping Judaism. In this period of time, as recorded in the book of Daniel, and throughout the subsequent years of the post exilic period, Yahweh showed himself to be... Show more content on Helpwriting.net ...

The community was disillusioned with God, and unsure if he was faithful to his promises. Exile and the fall of the Davidic Monarchy had caused hopelessness and the nation was living in a state of despair and apathy. The shortsighted misinterpretation of prophetic words uttered by the prophets Jeremiah and Ezekiel (Jer. 33:15; Ezek. 34:23-24) left them anticipating a king, in the lineage of David, reigning in the Promised Land. With that not coming to pass, when and as anticipated, it shook their core beliefs and national identity.

The Chronicler's aimed to provide a theology of hope to the minority of Israelites who felt called to return. This hope, discoverable and restorative, through exploring afresh their history, and the faithfulness of Yahweh in keeping his covenantal promises, namely the Abrahamic Covenant (1 Chron. 16:13-17) and the Davidic Covenant (1 Chron. 17:26-27; 2 Chron. 6:14-16). The Chronicler's use of genealogies is meant to counteract this identity crisis. The genealogies, fortify both a historical and theological connection, reestablishing continuity with the true people of God, and their place as God's elect.

Intimacy on the Internet Lauren Rosewarne, 2016-04-14 The focus of this book is on the media representations of the use of the Internet in seeking intimate connections be it a committed relationship a hook up or a community in which to dabble in fringe sexual practices Popular culture film narrative television the news media and advertising present two very distinct pictures of the use of the Internet as related to intimacy From news reports about victims of online dating to the presentation of the desperate and dateless the perverts and the deviants a distinct frame for the intimacy Internet connection is negativity In some examples however a changing picture is emerging The ubiquitousness of Internet use today has meant a slow increase in comparatively more positive representations of successful online romances in the news resulting in more positive spin advertising and a more even handed presence of such liaisons in narrative television and film Both the positive and the negative media representations are categorised and analysed in this book to explore what they reveal about the intersection of gender sexuality technology and the changing mores regarding intimacy

The Memoirs of Toussaint and Isaac Louverture Arthur F. Saint-Aubin, 2015-07-15 This book examines the memoir of Toussaint Louverture a former slave general in the French army and leader of the Haitian Revolution and the memoir of his son Isaac The Revolution and its leaders have been studied and written about extensively Until recently 2004 however the memoir of Toussaint has received little attention and only as a historical document This is the first study that explores the 1802 work foremost as a literary text a creative production that deploys the techniques of fiction and drama to make truth claims about the past moreover this is the first book length study of Isaac Louverture's memoir The two texts are read as examples of how black men thought of themselves as men citizens and therefore how they expressed their masculinity at that historical moment as experiences of mourning and loss This study builds upon three areas of scholarship the tradition of memoir writing historicist readings of Toussaint's memoir and descriptions and theories of men and masculinity within the black Atlantic The study distinguishes itself in ways that will make it of interest to more than just historians in addition to using the intersection of race and masculinity as an analytical tool it speaks to the nature of literary creativity and it draws from studies examining the relationship between history memory and fiction As a result scholars and students in literary and cultural criticism as well as those in gender and diasporic studies will also find this study of interest and value
